Analytical Perspectives, Budget of the United States Government ,2014 Advances in Taxation Toby Stock,2012-12-17 Methodologically volume 20 features considerable breadth Two articles support their conclusions with analytical modeling Two others employ experimental methods using taxpayer practitioner subjects In addition two use quasi experimental empirical analyses Of the last two articles one uses survey methods and the last is a review article The Political Economy of Population Aging Kimiko Terai,Amihai Glazer,Naomi Miyazato,2021-09-21 This book integrates the economics of aging and insight based on political economy and explores generational conflict in the context of governmental spending This problem is general as the Covid 19 pandemic has highlighted lockdowns protect the elderly but hurt the young Policies to address global warming impose taxes on the elderly but would bring benefits largely in the future This book addresses intergenerational problems by placing its focus on budget allocation taxation and regulation By using Japanese and US data the authors conduct statistical analysis of whether regions with aging populations may adopt policies that generate benefits during a short period of time instead of policies that could benefit current young generations for an extended period of time If the policy preferences of voters depend on their age and if policy adoption by a government reflects public opinion the change in demographic composition in a region may affect governmental policies In an aged society the elderly are pivotal voters Budgets may be reallocated from policies favored by younger generations such as education to policies the elderly prefer such as welfare programs This generates an intergenerational externality problem voters with short life expectancy do not take into consideration long term benefits Moreover the current tax bases may be replaced by other tax bases that do not harm the elderly The results reported in the book largely support these hypotheses Evidence also shows that the gender and racial composition and institutional factors including the extent of fiscal decentralization are important in anticipating effects of population aging in other countries
