

CHAPTER 1

THE CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM

Chapter Outline

- I. What goals does the criminal justice system serve?
 - Many have attempted to define such goals
 - Putting these straightforward ideas into practice is difficult
 - Most people agree that the system has three goals: doing justice, controlling crime, and preventing crime
 - Importance of: President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice, 1967
- A. Doing justice
 - Basis for rules, procedures, and institutions of the criminal justice system
 - Fairness is essential
 - Differentiates the criminal justice system in the United States from authoritarian countries
 - Goal of doing justice embodies three principles
 1. Offenders will be held fully accountable for their actions
 2. The rights of the persons who have contact with the system will be protected
 3. Like offenses will be treated alike while considering relevant differences among offenders
- B. Controlling crime
 - Crime is controlled by arresting, prosecuting, convicting, and punishing who disobey the law
 - The system must also take actions to prevent crime from occurring
 - Criminal law defines what is illegal and spells out how the criminal justice system carries out its duties
- C. Preventing crime
 - Crime is most often prevented by the deterrent effect of police, courts, and corrections which involves punishment and tries to keep others from breaking the law
 - Though citizens cannot enforce the law they still have an obligation in crime prevention
- II. The criminal justice system is based on the concept of federalism
 - Federalism is a system of government that divides powers between a federal, or national government, and regional state governments
 - No single level of government is solely responsible for administration of criminal justice
 - The U.S. Constitution reserves the right of primary policing powers to the states
 - Examples: State police and highway patrol, county sheriff, municipal police
