all general readers interested in climate change The Nature of Empire Andrea Duffy, 2025-09-15 The Nature of Empire exposes the central role of modern imperialism in the development of contemporary environmentalism and environmental science. It builds this case through an investigation of five major modern empires: Britain, France, Russia, the Ottoman Empire, and Japan. This book offers readers a global environmental history of modern imperialism that actively engages Western-based and non-Western-based empires. As this study shows, imperialism ultimately transformed human perceptions of nature and the environment in significant, lasting, and conflicting ways. It both inspired modern conservationist practices and fueled opposition to environmental policies in colonial contexts. It also spurred the development of climate science, which helped reveal the environmental toll of imperial exploitation and drive efforts to fight it. The environmental and political legacies of empire remain evident today through unmitigated anthropogenic climate change and the increasing incidence of extreme weather, which tends to disproportionately impact marginalized peoples. This book stands as a useful and accessible resource for students, scholars, and all those seeking to better understand environmental history, imperial legacies, and the roots of contemporary climate challenges.

A Cultural History of Climate Wolfgang Behringer, 2010 Explores the latest historical research on the development of the earth's climate, showing how even minor changes in the climate could result in major social, political, and religious upheavals.

Politics and Climate Change: A History Andy May, 2022-09-04 These are stories of the political corruption of science Politicians work to forge a consensus they use persuasion intimidation and avoid or suppress debate Debating an issue leads to education it shows the question is more complex than it appears it makes the public consider all sides Education leads to caution not action The politician wants a decision he wants action so no debate Once the consensus is formed the public votes laws are passed regulations issued the minority concedes and conflict is avoided Science is not a belief It exists to challenge the consensus view It is how one person can show the overwhelming majority is mistaken Scientists do not vote they debate They gather facts make observations and analyze the data and try to show the consensus opinion is wrong Politicians and scientists don't mix They are like fire and water opposites But what about when no one trusts the politician and he must have a scientist for back up What happens when the government becomes the sole source of research money We address the attempt by politicians to control scientific research and research outcomes They do this by selectively funding projects that look for potential disasters ideally global disasters People love disaster stories journalists love disaster stories scientists love to be quoted in newspapers and on television If you frighten people enough they will give up their rights for security increasing government power So it is not surprising that as government has taken over funding scientific research scientists have migrated from research that helps people to researching possible catastrophes no matter how remote the possibility Science has devolved from improving human lives to developing plots for disaster movies

Israel's Past Bob Becking, 2021-10-04 How should one write a history of Ancient Israel In the last few decades a lively discussion has taken place on the historiography of ancient Israel Minimalists such as Philip Davies Thomas Thompson and Niels Peter Lemche challenged the usefulness of the Hebrew Bible as a source for constructing Israel's past Maximalists like Baruch Halpern and William Dever argued instead that the data from the Hebrew Bible should be trusted until otherwise proven Others among whom we can name Hans Barstad Rainer Albertz and Lester Grabbe took a third road The essays in this volume follow that third road by applying insights from the field of philosophy of history A dozen case studies from David to the earliest Samaritans demonstrate how difficult it is to write a history of ancient Israel without falling in the abyss of an ideology in one direction or another The matrix designed by Manfred Weippert to look at the past through five windows landscape climate archaeology epigraphy and only at the end the Hebrew Bible turned out to be more helpful The conclusion of this research is that there are some stable pillars in the swamp of the past but it comes with the warning that the space between these pillars is large and cannot easily be filled

New Energies Stephen G. Gross, Andrew Needham, 2023-02-28 Over the past 250 years energy transitions have occurred repeatedly the rise of coal in the nineteenth century the explosion of oil in the twentieth century the nuclear utopianism of the 1950s and 1960s These transitions have been as revolutionary as any political or economic upheaval and they required changes in infrastructure and behavior Yet new energies never wholly replace old ones This volume historicizes energy production and consumption while demonstrating how energy use has reshaped everything from social life and economic organization to political governance It foregrounds the importance of energy for big historical questions about capitalism
