The Arabian Nights The Seven Voyages Of Sindbad The Sailor:

The Seven Voyages of Sindbad the Sailor Andrew Lang, 2018-01-26 Arabian Nights Entertainment is a collection of stories selected from the Tales of the Arabian Nights Included in this are The Seven Voyages of Sindbad the Sailor presented by Andrew Lang Mystical adventures to stir the soul and imagination From monster birds to fields of diamonds the reader gladly ventures into the world of make believe Recommended by The Gunston Trust Ages 7 The Seven Voyages of Sinbad, 2010-07 The story of Sinbad the Sailor who sets sail in search of great riches and discovers even greater adventures On his seven treacherous voyages the Persian explorer braves a shipwreck fights off savage cannibals and battles a giant Cyclops surviving to tell his legendary tales The Arabian Nights Razzab Ali Shaikh, 2014-10-21 These old stories never forgotten were taken down in writing in different ages but mostly in this century in all sorts of languages These ancient stories are the contents of the Fairy books Now The Arabian Nights some of which but not nearly all are given in this volume are only fairy tales of the East The people of Asia Arabia and Persia told them in their own way not for children but for grown up people There were no novels then nor any printed books of course but there were people whose profession it was to amuse men and women by telling tales They dressed the fairy stories up and made the characters good Mohammedans living in Bagdad or India The events were often supposed to happen in the reign of the great Caliph or ruler of the Faithful Haroon al Rashid who lived in Bagdad in 786 808 A D The vizir who accompanies the Caliph was also a real person of the great family of the Barmecides He was put to death by the Caliph in a very cruel way nobody ever knew why The stories must have been told in their present shape a good long while after the Caliph died when nobody knew very exactly what had really happened At last some storyteller thought of writing down the tales and fixing them into a kind of framework as if they had all been narrated to a cruel Sultan by his wife In the chronicles of the ancient dynasty of the Sassanid who reigned for about four hundred years from Persia to the borders of China beyond the great river Ganges itself we read the praises of one of the kings of this race who was said to be the best monarch of his time His subjects loved him and his neighbors feared him and when he died he left his kingdom in a more prosperous and powerful condition than any king had done before him The two sons who survived him loved each other tenderly and it was a real grief to the elder Schahriar that the laws of the empire forbade him to share his dominions with his brother Schahzeman Indeed after ten years during which this state of things had not ceased to trouble him Schahriar cut off the country of Great Tartary from the Persian Empire and made his brother king Now the Sultan Schahriar had a wife whom he loved more than all the world and his greatest happiness was to surround her with splendor and to give her the finest dresses and the most beautiful jewels It was therefore with the deepest shame and sorrow that he accidentally discovered after several years that she had deceived him completely and her whole conduct turned out to have been so bad that he felt himself obliged to carry out the law of the land and order the grand vizir to put her to death The blow was so heavy that his mind almost gave way and he declared that he was quite sure that at bottom all women were as wicked as the sultana if you could only find them out and that the fewer the world contained the better So every evening he married a fresh wife and had her strangled the following morning before the grand vizir whose duty it was to provide these unhappy brides for the Sultan The poor man fulfilled his task with reluctance but there was no escape and every day saw a girl married and a wife dead This behavior caused the greatest horror in the town where nothing was heard but cries and lamentations In one house was a father weeping for the loss of his daughter in another perhaps a mother trembling for the fate of her child and instead of the blessings that had formerly been heaped on the Sultan s head the air was now full of curses The grand vizir himself was the father of two daughters of whom the elder was called Scheherazade and the younger Dinarzade Dinarzade had no particular gifts to distinguish her from other girls but her sister was clever and courageous in the highest degree Her father had given her the best masters in philosophy medicine history and the fine arts and besides all this her beauty excelled that of any girl in the kingdom of Persia
