Water Worlds: Human Geographies of the Ocean Dr Jon Anderson, Dr Kimberley Peters, 2014-02-28 Our world is a water world Seventy percent of our planet consists of ocean However geography has traditionally overlooked this vital component of the earth s composition The word geography directly translates as earth writing and in line with this definition the discipline has preoccupied itself with the study of terrestrial spaces of society and nature This book challenges human geography s preoccupation with the terrestrial investigating the terra incognita of the seas and oceans Linking to new theoretical debates shaping the geographic discipline such as affect assemblage emotion

hybridity and the more than human this volume unlocks new knowledge concerning the human geographies of ocean space The book casts adrift stable bounded and fixed conceptions of space and advances geographical understanding based on the world as becoming changing mobile and processional This ontology supports the notion that the oceans are not simply fluid in a literal way but also in a conceptual sense suggesting that the seas have their own fluid natures their own capacities and agencies which are co fabricated with social and cultural life This book features twelve chapters authored by key academics contributing to this growing field of research The book is divided into three sections including an Introduction by the editors and a foreword by Prof Philip E Steinberg the leading scholar in the field of maritime geographies The first section of the book considers the ways in which different watery spaces from the Atlantic Ocean to the Mediterranean Sea have been conceptualized theorized and known through metaphors voyages of discovery and scientific endeavour The second section examines how oceans are experienced through various activities including driving on water kayaking in water and diving under water The final section explores the relations between human life and the nature of the sea as a material mobile and more than human space examining the influences of the ocean on the migratory practices of fishermen in Senegal to the more than human geographies of the contemporary scallop industry the historical journeys of steam ship companies and the pirate radio enterprise Oceans are fundamental to the workings of the world as we know it Critical human activities take place at sea including trade tourism migration scientific exploration and resource exploitation The water world is therefore significantly entwined with our everyday lives This book offers a novel and important contribution to an ever emerging cross disciplinary subject matter

The African Diaspora Toyin Falola, 2013 The African diaspora is arguably the most important event in modern African history From the fifteenth century to the present millions of Africans have been dispersed many of them forcibly others driven by economic need or political persecution to other continents creating large communities with African origins living outside their native lands The majority of these communities are in North America This historic displacement has meant that Africans are irrevocably connected to economic and political developments in the West and globally Among the known legacies of the diaspora are slavery colonialism racism poverty and underdevelopment yet the ways in which these same factors worked to spur the scattering of Africans are not fully understood by those who were part of this migration or by scholars historians and policymakers In this definitive study of the diaspora in North America Toyin Falola offers a causal history of the western dispersion of Africans and its effects on the modern world Reengaging old and familiar debates and framing new ones that enrich the discourse surrounding Africa Falola isolates the thread running nearly six centuries that connects the history of slavery the transatlantic slave trade and current migrations A boon to scholars and policymakers and accessible to the general reader the book explores diverse narratives of migration and shows that the cultures that migrated from Africa to the Americas have the capacity to unite and create a new pan Africanist movement within the globalized world Toyin Falola is the Jacob and Frances Sanger Mossiker Chair in the Humanities and University

Distinguished Teaching Professor at the University of Texas at Austin He is the 2011 recipient of the Distinguished Africanist Award from the African Studies Association and serves as the vice president of the International Scientific Committee of the UNESCO Slave Route Project His previous books published by the University of Rochester Press include The Power of African Cultures and Nationalism and African Intellectuals Johann Reinhold Forster and the Making of Natural History on Cook's Second Voyage, 1772-1775 Anne Mariss,2019-09-09 James Cook's voyages of exploration are a turning point not only in the history of the British Empire but also in the history of science and exploration of the Pacific The last decades have seen a wide ranging scholarly interest in Cook's voyages focusing on their impact on European and Polynesian societies their scientific results and their protagonists such as Cook himself or the nobleman Joseph Banks who took part in Cook's first voyage of exploration This book examines the hitherto underestimated role of the German scholar Johann Reinhold Forster who together with his son Georg Forster accompanied Cook on his second voyage of exploration 1772-1775 as a principal naturalist For a long time the German traveler has remained a rather shadowy figure of Cook's voyages of exploration and has only attracted scholarly attention occasionally Focusing on the making of knowledge onboard the ship and the islands where it made landfall the study provides a historical reappraisal of Forster's scientific performance as a leading naturalist of his time By examining Forster's Resolution Journal Anne Mariss takes a microhistorical approach toward the making of natural history knowledge during the expedition to the Pacific Mariss unveils the difficulties the traveling naturalists encountered while collecting describing classifying and painting the natural world Her study brings to light the contribution of the various actors who were involved in this undertaking such as the scientific assistants sailors officers and the local actors of the Pacific world comparison and simultaneity generated through forms of textual and visual pastiche that linked the wider world to the Venetian lagoon. These wide ranging stances allowed Venetians to argue for their different but equivalent participation in the Age of Encounters. Whereas historians have traditionally focused on the Spanish conquest and colonization of the New World and the Dutch and English mapping of it, they have ignored the wide circulation of Venetian Americana. Horodowich demonstrates how, with their printed texts and maps, Venetian newsmongers embraced a fertile tension between the distant and the close. In doing so, they played a crucial yet heretofore unrecognized role in the invention of America.

Agents of European overseas empires Elodie Peyrol-Kleiber, L. H. Roper, Bertrand Van Ruymbeke, Agnès Delahaye, 2024-03-12. Agents of European overseas empires involves contributors who specialise on often overlooked aspects of imperial endeavour: private European interests, companies, merchants or courtiers who conducted their own activities both with and without the benediction of politics. The chapters adopt intra as well as inter-imperial perspectives and transport the reader to colonial America, the West Indies, the Cape of Good Hope, Batavia or Ceylon through the Dutch, English, French and Spanish empires. Agents of European overseas empires offers crucial insight on how these actors acquired profits and power and in turn laid the platforms for European global empires.

European Empires in the American South Joseph P. Ward, 2017-09-08. Contributions by Allison Margaret Bigelow, Denise I. Bossy, Alejandra Dubcovsky, Alexandre Dub, Kathleen DuVal, Jonathan Eacott, Travis Glasson, Christopher Morris, Robert Olwell, Joshua Piker, and Joseph P. Ward. European Empires in the American South examines the process of European expansion into a region that has come to be known as the American South. After Europeans began to cross the Atlantic with confidence, they interacted for three hundred years with one another, with the native people of the region, and with enslaved Africans in ways that made the South a significant arena of imperial ambition. As such, it was one of several similarly contested regions around the Atlantic basin. Without claiming that the South was unique during the colonial era, these essays make clear the region's integral importance for anyone seeking to shed new light on the long-term process of global social, cultural, and economic integration. This volume includes essays on all three imperial powers: Spain, Britain, and France, and their imperial projects in the American South. While the consequences of Indian encounters with European invaders have long remained a principal feature of historical research, this volume advances and expands knowledge of Native Americans in the South amid the Atlantic World.
