Connecting to Your World

You know that without oxygen to breathe, you could not live. But did you know that oxygen plays another important role in your life? High in the atmosphere, a different form of oxygen, called ozone, forms a layer that filters out harmful radiation from the sun. The colors in this map indicate the concentrations of ozone in various parts of Earth's atmosphere. In this section, you will learn how oxygen atoms can join in pairs to form the oxygen you breathe and can also join in groups of three oxygen atoms to form ozone.

The Octet Rule in Covalent Bonding

Recall that when ionic compounds form, electrons tend to be transferred so that each ion acquires a noble gas configuration. A similar rule applies for covalent bonds. In covalent bonds, electron sharing usually occurs so that atoms attain the electron configurations of noble gases. For example, each hydrogen atom has one electron. But a pair of hydrogen atoms share these two electrons when they form a covalent bond in a hydrogen molecule. Each hydrogen atom thus attains the electron configuration of helium, a noble gas with two electrons. Combinations of atoms of the nonmetals and metalloids in Groups 4A, 5A, 6A, and 7A of the periodic table are likely to form covalent bonds. In this case the atoms usually acquire a total of eight electrons, or an octet, by sharing electrons, so that the octet rule applies.

Single Covalent Bonds

The hydrogen atoms in a hydrogen molecule are held together mainly by the attraction of the shared electrons to the positive nuclei. Two atoms held together by sharing a pair of electrons are joined by a single covalent bond. Hydrogen gas consists of diatomic molecules whose atoms share only one pair of electrons, forming a single covalent bond.
