Maurice Ravel A Research and Information Guide is an annotated bibliography concerning both the nature of primary sources related to the composer and the scope and significance of the secondary sources which deal with him his compositions and his influence as a composer and theorist. Sleep Science Hawley Montgomery-Downs, 2020-05-07

Sleep's purposes and benefits and the impacts of not sleeping well or well enough have been intensively investigated as a modern science for nearly 60 years. Sleep Science is an advanced introduction to the subject of sleep and sleep disorders. Designed for upper division undergraduate students who have completed introductory prerequisites in behavioral principles, systems physiology, and research methods, it is also appropriate for the post graduate student adding sleep to their training portfolio. Sleep Science is ideal for use in a standard semester or quarter based course and is organized into thematic sections: normative adult sleep, lifespan development, sleep and circadian disorders and treatments, sleep assessments, and sleep as a profession. Cross-cutting issues are specifically addressed in chapters such as women's health and culture. Chapters conform to a standardized layout and are authored by subject matter experts, all of whom are also sleep educators. Edited for a consistent voice and continuity, each chapter features explanatory figures, tables, and/or photographs to illustrate key concepts.

Breasts Florence Williams, 2012-04-30 A 2012 New York Times Notable Book A 2013 Los Angeles Times Book Award Winner in the Science/Technology category. An engaging narrative about an incredible life-giving organ and its imperiled modern fate. Did you know that breast milk contains substances similar to cannabis? Or that it's sold on the Internet for 262 times the price of oil? Feted and fetishized, the breast is an evolutionary masterpiece. But in the modern world, the breast is changing. Breasts are getting bigger, arriving earlier, and attracting newfangled chemicals. Increasingly, the odds are stacked against us in the struggle with breast cancer, even among men. What makes breasts so mercurial and so vulnerable? In this informative and highly entertaining account, intrepid science reporter Florence Williams sets out to uncover the latest scientific findings from the fields of anthropology, biology, and medicine. Her investigation follows the life cycle of the breast, from puberty to pregnancy to menopause, taking her from a plastic surgeon's office where she learns about the importance of cup size in Texas to the laboratory where she discovers the presence of environmental toxins in her own breast milk. The result is a fascinating exploration of where breasts came from, where they have ended up, and what we can do to save them.

Her Way Paula Kamen, 2000 How young women are redefining sex 30 years after the Sexual Revolution Three decades after the Sexual Revolution women's power and status have begun to match men's and women are finally making the rules in order to experience a more radical and truer form of liberation Her Way demonstrates how and why 20 and 30 something women have evolved to act and think more like men sexually while also creating their own distinct sexual patterns and appetites Today's young women are now the leaders of an unreported but sweeping Sexual Evolution in which women take control of sex and redefine it from their perspective In other words do it her way Paula Kamen characterizes this Sexual Evolution according to two major developments that are setting sexual patterns for future generations of women young women's sexual profiles are now remarkably similar to those of men in terms of age of first intercourse and numbers of sex partners and casual encounters They also feel less guilt or shame about their behavior from premarital sex to having a child out of marriage to coming out of the closet to cohabiting Yet young women are not merely imitating men but forging their own distinct sexual perspectives and asserting their own needs In addition to discovering the pleasures of sex young women are also exploring the dilemmas challenging male defined sexual scripts and changing what actually goes on in bed Based on more than one hundred lively unfiltered and in depth interviews with women across the country Her Way cuts through the sensationalism and speculation of popular discussions about young women and sex Kamen reports the real story of today's enhanced sexual expectations and choices

Minding the Body

Ellyn Kaschak, 2014-01-27 Support and empower women who are coping with the pain fear and stigma of serious disease Being diagnosed with cancer chronic fatigue syndrome or fibromyalgia is a traumatic event that takes place at a time when the patient is already feeling physically and often emotionally drained Minding the Body combines feminist and social constructionist approaches to offer an intimate look into the ways a therapist can help clients cope with the pain fear and stigma of serious disease Minding the Body offers an alternative to the reductive view of the mind body connection and also examines the potential for growth that such experiences often allow The essays gathered here show how an effective therapist can help the client deal with the painful and difficult emotions that exacerbate illness while learning the emotional and spiritual lessons illness can teach Minding the Body presents both theoretical views and personal accounts of illness including scholarly discussions of the issues involved in autoimmune disorders a therapist's personal experience of chronic fatigue syndrome a personal and professional exposition of a woman's struggles with injury illness and managed care co written by client and therapist suggestions for understanding the social construction of illness and treating disease from a social constructivist point of view narratives reflecting on the change and growth of therapists diagnosed with cancer and other serious illnesses By looking at illness in the context of mind body society and medical establishment Minding the Body will help therapists doctors nurses counselors and clients deal with the grief disappointment and frustration of chronic and life threatening illness
