Plucker, Scott J. Peters, 2020-01-15 2017 Texas Association for Gifted and Talented Legacy Scholar Book Award 2017 National Association of Gifted Children Scholar Book of the Year Award In Excellence Gaps in Education Jonathan A Plucker and Scott J Peters shine a spotlight on excellence gaps the achievement gaps among subgroups of students performing at the highest levels of achievement Much of the focus of recent education reform has been on closing gaps in achievement between students from different racial ethnic or socioeconomic backgrounds by bringing all students up to minimum levels of proficiency Yet issues related to excellence gaps have been largely absent from discussions about how to improve our schools and communities Plucker and Peters argue that these significant gaps reflect the existence of a persistent talent underclass in the United States among African American Hispanic Native American and poor students resulting in an incalculable loss of potential among our fastest growing populations Drawing on the latest research and a wide range of national and international data the authors outline the scope of the problem and make the case that excellence gaps should be targeted for elimination They identify promising interventions for talent development already underway in schools and provide a detailed review of potential strategies including universal screening flexible grouping targeted programs and psychosocial interventions Excellence Gaps in Education has the potential for changing our national conversation about equity and excellence and bringing fresh attention to the needs of high potential students from underrepresented backgrounds

If Einstein Ran the Schools Thomas Armstrong Ph.D.,2019-10-11 Many world class thinkers and creators have been concerned about the state of education in the United States Discover their thoughts on how children really learn and what teachers must do to optimally tap children s latent abilities During the last three decades education reformers have pushed standardized testing and policies like No Child Left Behind and Common Core to improve test scores and proficiency in basic skills However during this period that author Thomas Armstrong calls the miseducation of America a number of troubling trends have surfaced including a decrease in creative thinking scores among children in kindergarten through third grade Rather than focus on what s wrong with the education system that has produced these outcomes Armstrong lays out what creative thinkers know about how children should be educated In an extended thought experiment he asks what would happen if we turned the reins of educational policy over not to the politicians and educational bureaucrats but to eminent thinkers and creators like Albert Einstein Pablo Picasso Martin Luther King Jr Rachel Carson Doris Lessing Jane Goodall and other seminal culture builders What might they say about the best way to educate a child If Einstein Ran the Schools suggests that the answers to this intriguing question should guide future efforts to reform our nation s schools

The End of the Innocence Lawrence R. Samuel,2007-10-01 From April 1964 to October 1965 some 52 million people from around the world flocked to the New York World s Fair an experience that lives on in the memory of many individuals and in America s collective consciousness Taking a perceptive look back at the last of the great world s fairs Samuel offers a vivid portrait of this seminal event and of the cultural climate that surrounded it He also counters critics assessments of the fair as the ugly duckling of global expositions Opening five months after President Kennedy s assassination the fair allowed millions to celebrate international fellowship while the conflict in Vietnam came to a boil This event was perhaps the last time so many from so far could gather to praise harmony while ignoring cruel realities on such a gargantuan scale This world s fair glorified the postwar American dream of limitless optimism even as a counterculture of sex drugs and rock n roll came into being It could rightly be called the last gasp of that dream The End of the Innocence Samuel s work charts the fair from inception in 1959 to demolition in 1966 and provides a broad overview of the social and cultural dynamics that led to the birth of the event It also traces thematic aspects of the fair with its focus on science technology and the world of the future Accessible entertaining and informative the book is richly illustrated with contemporary photographs Celebrating Life Customs around the World Victoria R. eine kalte Kindheit körperlich krank machen. Neueste Studien belegen, dass klassische internistische Erkrankungen wie Krebs, Rheuma oder Herz-Kreislaufleiden häufig Folgen von frühkindlichen traumatischen Erfahrungen sind. Der Mechanismus ist komplex: Seelische Dauerbelastung löst neuronale Entscheidungsprozesse im Gehirn aus, die Veränderungen im körperlichen Stresssystem schädigen, das Immunsystem. Die gute Nachricht: Dieser Prozess lässt sich stoppen, selbst im Erwachsenenalter. Die renommierte Gesundheitsexpertin Donna Jackson Nakazawa hat ein elementares Resilienz-Programm entwickelt. Zentrale Elemente sind Achtsamkeitsübungen für Körper und Geist sowie Techniken zum Umgang mit Traumata. Marine Ecosystem Restoration (MER) – Challenges and New Horizons Brian Silliman, Avigdor Abelson, Christine Angelini, Gesche Krause, Megan Irene Saunders, Tjisse Van Der Heide, 2023-10-23. Worldwide marine ecosystems have been lost and degraded due to anthropogenic disturbances. For example, oyster reefs have declined by at least 85%, coral reefs by 19%, seagrasses by 29%, North American salt marshes by 42% and mangroves by 35% from the early 19th century. Deepwater reefs and deep sea vents are not immune and have also been reduced in extent in many areas. Factors driving these losses include habitat destruction, pollution, invasive species, overfishing, trawling, mining and more recently climate change effects such as ocean warming, species range changes and acidification. These habitat declines are occurring at a time when marine waters are being used at or near their maximum productive capacity to meet the contemporary needs of an ever-increasing human population. Because coastal and marine ecosystems generate some of the richest biodiversity hotspots on Earth and provide critical ecosystem services including storm protection, fisheries production and carbon storage, over 1 billion US dollars have been spent globally in an attempt to halt and reverse observed declines. Early conservation efforts aimed at protecting these valuable and threatened habitats focused on reducing human impacts and physical stressors. However, with habitat degradation continuing and sometimes increasing in rate, it is now clear conservation alone will not be sufficient to protect and reestablish coastal ecosystems. Habitat restoration, although in existence for many decades, has recently been elevated as a new primary strategy to stem and even reverse coastal habitat loss. The call for increasing investment in restoration efforts has emerged with significant advances in propagule rearing and dispersion of habitat-forming organisms, e.g., oysters, seagrasses, corals. In addition, restoration resources are increasingly allocated by governments and/or large corporations with the aim to, for example, fix past landscape engineering efforts that had unintended environmental consequences. Such investments are being made to: i) provide jobs for those unemployed during economic downturns; ii) restore ecosystems.

destroyed by natural disasters and stressors iii increase coastal defense in response to increased frequency of intense storms and or iv compensate for pollution and development driven habitat degradation Conservation practitioners have traditionally been skeptical to invest heavily in restoration at large scales because of the high cost per area 10 000 5 000 000 US ha for coastal vs 500 5 000 US ha for terrestrial systems to replant coastal ecosystems and or the high chance that the restored ecosystems will not live long e g outplanted corals For restoration to be effective and employed as a primary method of coastal conservation at relevant scales we must improve its efficiency lower costs and rapidly share and incorporate advances One crucial step will be to identify when and where restoration attempts have been carried out according to state of art ecological theory and gauge their success Another is generating synthesis studies that focus both within and across ecosystems to identify efficiencies adaptations and innovations Work that shows theoretical and methodological innovations in specific ecosystems as well as across systems will be critical to pushing all fields of MER forward Although there is rapidly increasing interest and investment the field of marine ecosystem restoration is just beginning to undergo synthesis Therefore the aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research contributions to help address this synthesis need provide a spotlight for recent innovations enhance our understanding of successful methods in marine ecosystem restoration and promote integration of ecological sociological and engineering theory into restoration practices MBA Programs, 2001
