MAINTAINING AND STRENGTHENING THE TESLA BRAND

We market and sell cars directly to consumers through an international network of company-owned stores and galleries. Our Tesla stores and galleries are highly visible premium outlets in major metropolitan markets, some of which combine retail sales and service. We have also found that opening a service center in a new geographic area can increase demand. As a result, we have complemented our store strategy with sales facilities and personnel in service centers to more rapidly expand our retail footprint. We refer to these as "Service Plus" locations. Including our Service Plus locations, we now operate a network of over 60 sales and gallery locations in North America, Europe and Asia including all of our sales and service facilities. We currently operate 30 locations. We intend to grow our sales and service network by approximately 75% during the year ending December 31, 2014.

We believe that by owning our own sales and service network we can offer a compelling customer experience while achieving operating efficiencies and capturing sales and service margins incumbent automobile manufacturers do not enjoy in the traditional franchised distribution and service model. Our customers deal directly with our own Tesla-employed sales and service staff, ensuring what we believe is a differentiated buying experience from the buying experience a consumer faces with franchised automobile dealers and service centers. We believe we will also be able to further control costs of inventory, manage warranty service and growing, maintain and strengthen the Tesla brand and obtain rapid customer feedback.

Further, we believe that by owning our sales network we will avoid the conflict of interest in the traditional dealership structure inherent to most incumbent automobile manufacturers where the sale of warranty parts and repairs to a dealer is a key source of revenue and profit for the dealer but often are an expense for the vehicle manufacturer.

Tesla Motors Annual Report:

Sustainable Financial Investments Brian Bolton, 2016-04-29 Is it possible for an investment to be good for a firm's profitability without also being good for the environment, employees or community? Bolton connects these seemingly disparate ideas to show how to incorporate economic costs, benefits, cash flows and risks into the evaluation of any type of investment.

Intellectual Property and Clean Energy Matthew Rimmer, 2018-10-26 This collection considers the future of climate innovation after the Paris Agreement. It analyses the debate over intellectual property and climate change in a range of forums including the climate talks, the World Trade Organization and the World Intellectual Property Organization, as well as multilateral institutions dealing with food, health and biodiversity. The book investigates the critical role patent law plays in providing incentives for renewable energy and access to critical inventions for the greater public good, as well as plant breeders' rights and their impact upon food security and climate change. Also considered is how access to genetic resources raises questions about biodiversity and climate change. This collection also explores the significant impact of trademark law in terms of green trademarks, eco labels and greenwashing. The key role played by copyright law in respect of access to environmental information is also considered. The book also looks at deadlocks in the debate over intellectual property and climate change and provides theoretical policy and practical solutions to overcome such impasses.
