Censorship of Historical Thought Antoon De Baets, 2001-12-30 History is an important dangerous and fragile subject Historical thought can be censored in widely diverging political and historiographical contexts as historians are well aware Yet the problems of censorship often thought to be obvious are rarely studied Filling a significant void this guide supplies information on the censorship of historical thought and the fate of persecuted historians in over 130 countries from Afghanistan to Zimbabwe and from 1945 to 2000 With each entry providing a chronological overview of cases and giving a full listing of sources the book is the first systematic effort to overview the repression of historical thought Aiming to encompass all countries in which censorship and persecution have taken place De Baets sketches a world map of repression that goes beyond the well known and well studied cases It assembles scattered data from three types of sources the works of censors and censored historical and biographical dictionaries and historiographical surveys and reports from international human rights organizations Showing the universality of historical censorship and its infinite variety in amount and degree the book also provides a basis for further comparative research

Race, Class, and Power Leo Kuper, 2017-07-05 Examining in detail the apparently inexorable polarization of society in such countries as Rwanda Algeria and South Africa the author questions whether current theories correctly explain the past or offer adequate guides for the future In their place he puts forward an alternative neo Durkheimian view of the possibility of non violent revolutionary change based on the development of such social and cultural continuities as already exist within each plural society But he warns that this is an age of passionate commitment to violence in which vicarious killers abound in search of a Vietnam of their own The aim of this groundbreaking and challenging book is to create theoretical perspectives in which to view the racial conflict of plural societies Written in the turbulent early 1970s the book demonstrates the inadequacy of then prevailing views such as Marxist interpretations of racial conflict as class struggle and the Fanon a priori rejection of non violent techniques of change which Kuper holds responsible for the acceptance of what he calls the platitudes of violence The book concludes with more personal sections focusing on the author's struggles with the then prevailing South African society critiques of that and censorship of his attempts to make these public In the light of subsequent changes in South Africa many decades later this book serves not only as an important work of political sociology but as a personal testament to the fight against racism in South Africa Leo Kuper was professor of sociology and director of the African Studies Center at the University of California Los Angeles A South African by birth he was one of the first writers on genocide as well as other aspects of African studies and urban sociology His major book Genocide Penguin 1981 remains in print The Leo Kuper Foundation is a non governmental organization dedicated to the eradication of genocide through research advice and education It was created in Washington DC in 1994 following the death of Leo Kuper with the aim of improving measures to prevent genocide The main area of work for the past five years has been in support of the creation of an International Criminal Court Troy Duster is director at the Institute for the History of the Production of Knowledge New York University

Human Rights, Race, and Resistance in Africa and the African Diaspora Toyin Falola, Cacee Hoyer, 2016-10-04 Africans and their descendants have long been faced with abuse of their human rights most frequently due to racism or racialized issues. Consequently, understanding shifting conceptualizations of race and identity is essential to understanding how people of color confronted these encounters. This book addresses these issues and their connections to social justice, discrimination, and equality movements. From colonial abuses or their legacies, black people around the world have historically encountered discrimination, and yet they do not experience injustice opaquely. The chapters in this book explore and clarify how Africans and their descendants struggled to achieve agency despite long histories of discrimination. Contributors draw upon a range of case studies related to resistance and examine these in conjunction with human rights and the concept of race to provide a thorough exploration of the diasporic experience. Human Rights, Race, and Resistance in Africa and the African Diaspora will appeal to students and scholars of Ethnic and Racial Studies, African History, and Diaspora Studies.

Bush War: The Road to Cuito Cuanavale Gennadii Vladimirovich Shubin, Andrei Aleksandrovich Tokarev, 2011 For almost 15 years, South Africa was involved in a civil war in Angola, the so-called Bush War, on behalf of the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola faction. The climax of the conflict portrayed in this history was the battle of Cuito Cuanavale, the largest military engagement on African soil since World War II. This book provides the firsthand personal accounts of the clash leading up to Cuito Cuanavale for the first time in English, as told by the Soviet advisers to the Angolan army. Their experiences of the war, as well as their views and assessment of their South African enemies and Cuban and Angolan allies, will not only surprise and fascinate readers but will also offer new insights into the war itself.
