1. The first step is to identify the problem. This involves understanding the current situation and the desired outcome.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to examine the effects of a 6-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary middle-aged women. Thirty-two women participated in the study. They were randomly assigned to either a control group or an exercise group. The exercise group performed a supervised aerobic and resistance training program three times per week for six weeks. The control group did not participate in any structured exercise program. Pre- and post-training measurements included body composition, cardiovascular fitness, muscular strength, and HRQL. Results showed that the exercise group significantly improved their physical fitness and HRQL compared to the control group. These findings suggest that a 6-week training program can improve the physical fitness and HRQL of sedentary middle-aged women.
