

School Lunches

Emma Bennett Master Block 7th 7 November 2012 School Lunches When students buy their lunch in a typical cafeteria, they expect decent, put together meals. Students usually see long lunch lines, hear loud talking, and eat fatty and disgusting food. In the lunch rooms I see unhealthy nasty food that everyone eats every single day. I have seen chili that smells like dog poop, nacho cheese that looks like barbeque sauce that got mixed in. Also the burritos tastes like vomit which was as hard as a rock. School cafeterias need to make more edible food and provide a healthier and more delicious variety of food.

School lunches can be delicious but sometimes they can be gross as road kill, and most students regret buying lunch. I have been buying lunch since my freshman year and I have gotten cheese that had a brown tint to it, uncooked pizza, chunky milk and much more. I spend two dollars and thirty five cents daily on lunch at Oakville that you would be able to find in a dumpster. School cafeterias should have a lot of healthy foods like, fruits, vegetables instead of the entire ala carte section. The lunch workers who make the lunch use frozen or canned foods and most of the food that seems appealing cost extra.

Therefore, the food that looks and taste good cost more than the food students waste or do not choose to eat. Given these facts the food should be fully cooked and checked. To conclude, Oakville should put out healthier food to eat, and the food should be at a lower cost to buy. Many consequences affect many people like, the students, lunch workers, principles and parents. Students that have gotten sick and have certain allergies to foods that most workers do not realize they have. Yet they have given the students these sicknesses and allergic reactions.

My friend has an allergy to wheat noodles and he has gotten noodles that he did not realize that, they contained wheat. When workers are required to wear a hair net students seem to find hairs in their food, which causes them to suddenly not feel hungry. Students getting sick from school cafeteria seems to happen from eating expired foods and sometimes foods that have not been cooked all the way through. I have gotten a slice of pizza that didn't seem to have the right color to it and it felt like it just came out of the fridge. The results after eating the uncooked pizza was me home with the so called "flu. To conclude school cafeterias should be putting out sign that show what the foods are made out of and workers should be careful with the foods they give to students. Improvements that can make school lunches healthier and less disgusting is including healthier foods. Schools should have different types of lunch lines such as specific lines for vegetarians and different parts of a lunch. For example, students who just want to buy one item can easily get in line and buy. However the amount of lunch lines at school is not enough, there are too many students that cut

The Trouble with Snack Time Jennifer Patico, 2020-08-18 Uncovering the class and race dimensions of the cupcake wars In the wake of school lunch reform debates heated classroom cupcake wars and concerns over childhood obesity the diet of American children has become a crisis and the cause of much anxiety among parents Many food conscious parents are well educated progressive and white and while they may explicitly value race and class diversity they also worry about less educated or less well off parents offering their children food that is unhealthy Jennifer Patico embedded herself in an urban Atlanta charter school community spending time at school events after school meetings school lunchrooms and private homes Drawing on interviews and ethnographic observation she details the dilemma for parents stuck between a commitment to social inclusion and a desire for control of their children's eating Ultimately Patico argues that the attitudes of middle class parents toward food reflect an underlying neoliberal capitalist ethic in which their need to cultivate proper food consumption for their children can actually work to reinforce class privilege and exclusion Listening closely to adults and children's food concerns The Trouble with Snack Time explores those unintended effects and suggests how the crisis of children's food might be reimagined toward different ends

Educational Dimensions of School Lunch Suzanne Rice, A.G. Rud, 2018-03-06 School lunch is often regarded as a necessary but inconvenient distraction from the real work of education Lunch in this view is about providing students the nourishment they need in order to attend to academic content and the tests that assess whether content has been learned In contrast the central purpose of this collection is to examine school lunch as an educational phenomenon in its own right Contributing authors drawing from a variety of disciplinary traditions including philosophy sociology and anthropology examine school lunch policies and practices social and cultural aspects of food and eating and the relation among school food the environment and human and non human animal well being The volume also addresses how school lunch might be more widely conceptualized and practiced as an educational undertaking

Reading and Making Notes

Jeanne Godfrey,2023-02-09 University students are typically exposed to a much wider variety of academic sources at university including monographs textbooks journals reports and crucially a much larger proportion of their time is spent on independent academic reading relative to their time in school There are lots of study skills texts which deal with academic writing in some form or other but there are far fewer resources which provide helpful guidance about how to manage the early stages of an assignment The quality of a student s written work reflects the quality of their reading and note making skills If students don t understand what their assignment is asking if students don t take control of their reading list and consult the most appropriate sources and if students don t end the process of reading with meaningful notes it s very unlikely that they will score high marks for their assignment This book helps readers to take charge of their reading at university and provides succinct and practical guidance at key stages of the assignment It helps students to understand what their assignment title means and how to identify useful reliable academic sources It helps students to apply different reading strategies depending on the task at hand and to approach texts actively so that they are questioning and evaluating materials as they go In addition to reading strategies the Pocket introduces readers to useful strategies and tips for note making The final part helps readers to make the most of their notes by engaging with and reviewing the material they ve created New for this edition A science based example for STEM students New section which helps readers think about what type of information and evidence they need to find New tips on managing large volumes of reading Updated material on note making software and online tools to reflect latest technology
