

Vitruvian Man Meets the Scientific Method Writing and Testing Appropriate Hypotheses

Leonardo da Vinci's drawing, Vitruvian Man, shows how the proportions of the human body fit perfectly into a circle and a square. This diagram by Leonardo da Vinci is an illustration of "Vitruvian Theory." According to Vitruvian Theory, the dimensions that describe our knowledge (our words) should fit snugly in the square that is our reality. In this analogy, you will replace the language of "Vitruvian Theory" with developing appropriate hypothesis Vitruvian Man.

1. Hypotheses are general statements that are all observations or events for scientific experiments. A hypothesis is generally a test statement. Formulated by prediction with generally scientific or theoretical basis using the given statement. For example:

- (i) If we use blue and red flower electrolyte is added, after about 2 weeks a divided having with a white color, it will stop.
- (ii) If increasing physical activity (exercise) person or have relative and few people, then it should lower weight (decrease) of their a day.

Formulated hypothesis contains both a dependent variable and independent variable. The independent variable is the one that you change, while dependent variable is the one you observe and measure or collect data. Formulate a hypothesis that says "If the independent is changed then the dependent will also change accordingly." For example, temperature is the independent variable because the temperature is being manipulated. During the collection process the color is used as the dependent variable (response).

PURPOSE

Students will gain understanding in hypothesis regarding formulated theory and related phenomena. In that it yields all characteristics of hypothesis containing observations, hypothesis and related things.
