A Natural History of Nature Writing Frank Stewart, 2012-07-11 A Natural History of Nature Writing is a penetrating overview of the origins and development of a uniquely American literature. Essayist and poet Frank Stewart describes in rich and compelling prose the lives and works of the most prominent American nature writers of the 19th and 20th centuries including Henry D. Thoreau, the father of American nature writing; John Burroughs, a schoolteacher and failed businessman who found his calling as a writer and elevated the nature essay to a loved and respected literary form; John Muir, founder of the Sierra Club who celebrated the wilderness of the Far West as few before him had; Aldo Leopold, a Forest Service employee and scholar who extended our moral responsibility to include all animals and plants; Rachel Carson, a scientist who raised the consciousness of the nation by revealing the catastrophic effects of human intervention on the Earth's living systems; Edward Abbey, an outspoken activist who charted the boundaries of ecological responsibility and pushed these boundaries to political extremes. Stewart highlights the controversies ignited by the powerful and eloquent prose of these and other writers with their expansive and often strongly political points of view. Combining a deeply felt sense of wonder at the beauty surrounding us with a rare ability to capture and explain the meaning of that beauty, nature writers have had a profound effect on American culture and politics. A Natural History of Nature Writing is an insightful examination of an important body of American literature.

The Wisdom of John Muir Anne Rowthorn, 2012-03-27 Largely using the Muir's own words, the author looks at the experiences, places, and people that inspired and informed the naturalist's words and beliefs. Selected and commented on by the author of Your Daily Life Is Your Temple. Original.

Exuberance Kay Redfield Jamison, 2005-09-13 A national bestselling author examines one of the mind's most exalted states, one that is crucially important to learning, risk-taking, social cohesiveness, and survival itself. Jamison is that rare writer who can offer a kind of unified field theory of science and art. The Washington Post Book World: With the same grace and breadth of learning she brought to her studies of the mind's pathologies, Kay Redfield Jamison examines one of its most exalted states: exuberance. This abounding, ebullient, effervescent emotion manifests itself everywhere, from child's play to scientific breakthrough. Exuberance: The Passion for Life introduces us to such notably irrepressible types as Teddy Roosevelt, John Muir, and Richard Feynman, as well as Peter Pan, dancing porcupines, and Charles Schulz's Snoopy. It explores whether exuberance can be inherited, parses its neurochemical grammar, and documents the methods people have used to stimulate it. The resulting book is an irresistible fusion of science and soul.

John Muir Mary Colwell, 2014-11-21 John Muir is regarded as the father of America's national parks and is a towering figure in the history of that country's involvement with ecology. Born into a harsh home in Dunbar, Scotland, he would often escape to revel in the birds and wildlife of the area. When his father suddenly uprooted the family and moved to the United States, the oppression he associated with his childhood continued, and so did his involvement with the natural world. Despite the difficulty of his formative years, Muir grew up to be a man of great joy: first an inventor and then an explorer, he found his haven in the mountains of Sierra Nevada He was a fascinating character on the one hand a recluse who sought solitude and on the other a passionate activist determined to save the places he loved A strong believer in both God and the essential goodness of humanity he was the founder and first president of the Sierra Club This wonderful memoir pays tribute to a giant of ecology and is essential reading for lovers of natural history California's Frontier Naturalists Richard G
