Radical Advocate Mary E. Triece, 2025 Born into slavery in Holly Springs Mississippi in 1862 Ida B Wells emerged in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries as a singularly dynamic national voice on behalf of racial social and gender equity A journalist teacher and activist she campaigned endlessly against racial violence and inequity and on behalf of women's rights and suffrage In

Radical Advocate Mary E Triage pinpoints the persuasive strategies that typified Wells's efforts to shape broader cultural conversations concerning those causes. Triage highlights especially Wells's role as a radical embodied advocate who Triage defines as one who occupies a marginalized social position whose daily experiences physical well-being and mobility are shaped by social justice issues and who must utilize non-traditional rhetorical strategies to push for deeply rooted social change. Embodiment suggests bodily visibility and seeing the physical body as marked in ways that carry political and physical implications based on race, sex, gender, and class. In the context of the early 1900s racial segregation and hysteria over race mixing impacted bodies in every aspect of one's public and personal life from where one lived and worked to whom and how one loved. To demonstrate the ways radical embodied advocacy occurs across various platforms, Triage examines Wells's speeches, pamphlets, and newspaper and magazine articles. For Wells, white violence was palpable and personal, experienced on her body and carried in her mind and heart. White men lynched Wells's friends, threatened her life, and forced her into exile after they destroyed the press for which she wrote and edited. From this perspective, Wells understood lynching as linked to white economic and political control. Furthermore, Triage presents Wells's radical embodied advocacy as one of the first forms of intersectional journalism, a type of citizen journalism wherein the advocate raises up and centers the voices of those experiencing interlocking forms of oppression. Triage underscores the epistemic challenges faced by rhetors such as Black women who speak from marginalized social positions and who advance claims that do not align with culturally accepted frames for knowing and describing events, people, and places. She also bridges philosophy, rhetoric, and Black feminism to examine the epistemological and rhetorical demands facing social change advocates who shed light on injustice and who simultaneously face deeply entrenched narratives that distort understandings of race and social injustice. Wells argued for deep-rooted change, and her rhetoric stands out because she framed white violence as systemic and intersectional. In the twenty-first century, Radical Advocate is even more relevant in the context of contemporary white violence and international movements for racial justice. A rhetorical analysis of Wells's speaking and journalism shows her to be one of the first to emphasize the systemic nature of racism while highlighting the unique ways Black women experienced racist and sexist oppression.

the familiar slogan of 1960s racial justice politics The message is clear the fight against racism is a fight for greater democracy for the rule of the people And yet across American history movements of racial backlash have also framed themselves as aiming to deliver greater democracy and redeem the rule of the people Examples abound ranging from the Southern Redeemers who overthrew Reconstruction to the populist backlash to the civil rights movement and the white revanchism of our own time How is it that we find claims to greater democracy on both sides of these struggles What does this reveal about modern democracy popular sovereignty and the peculiar politics of race in America The Counterrevolutionary Shadow Race Democracy and the Making of the American People provides a novel account of the relationship between race and democratic politics in the United States Across five chapters Michael Gorup turns to the life and work of key figures in the history of American political thought including Thomas Jefferson Hosea Easton David Walker Ida B Wells W E B Du Bois and Huey P Newton to argue that racial politics in the United States has always been a politics of peoplehood Racism is what Gorup calls a politics of popular enclosure it limits the scope of democratic power by circumscribing who is said to belong to the people In so doing it contains democratization from within Neither strictly antidemocratic nor a necessary entailment of modern democracy as such Gorup argues that racism is best understood as a political construct developed to manage if never fully reconcile the contradictions that beset settler democracy Racism is in short American democracy s counterrevolutionary shadow a technology for rendering despotic practices like enslavement exploitation and dispossession tolerable within a society where the people are said to rule
