The Internet And Democracy Building In Lusophone African Countries:

The Internet and Democracy Building in Lusophone African Countries Susana Salgado, 2016-03-03 This timely book fills an important gap in the literature on the influence of the Internet and new media in Portuguese speaking African countries. Based on extensive field work throughout the region, the author examines the influence of the Internet in the transition to democracy in Africa and asks whether there are new possibilities for popular activism to emerge from evolving communication environments and media systems. The book analyses the different forms of democracy, the concept of development, and addresses the debate about the relationship between democracy and development, and explores the influence of the media in the democratization process, the promises that digital media bring to this process, and to development, and the implications of the African digital divide. In certain countries in this region, democracy and independent news media are in their infancy but are starting to take hold, giving an excellent opportunity to observe the dynamics of civil society and the influence of increased freedom, new voting powers, and new media in particular. The book offers important insights into the roles and functions that the media in general and the Internet in particular can perform in the creation of a more democratic society, as well as in empowering and educating citizens in democratic values.

Andrews, 2017-05-24 Covering more than 80 countries around the world, this book provides a compelling contemporary snapshot of how people in other countries are using the Internet, social media, and mobile apps. How do people in other countries use the social media platform Facebook differently than Americans do? What topics are discussed on the largest online forum, one in Indonesia, with more than seven million registered users Why does Mongolia rate in the top ten countries worldwide for peak Internet speeds Readers of Online around the World A Geographic Encyclopedia of the Internet Social Media and Mobile Apps will discover the answers to these questions and learn about people s Internet and social media preferences on six continents outside of the online community of users within the United States The book begins with an overview of the Internet social media platforms and mobile apps that chronologically examines the development of technological innovations that have made the Internet what it is today The country specific entries that follow the overview provide demographic information and describe specific events influenced by online communications allowing readers to better appreciate the incredible power of online interactions across otherwise unconnected individuals and the realities and peculiarities of how people communicate in today s fast paced globalized and high technology environment This encyclopedia presents social media and the Internet in new light identifying how the use of language and the specific application of human culture impacts emerging technologies and communications dramatically affecting everything from politics to social activism education and censorship

The Routledge Companion to Global Internet Histories Gerard Goggin, Mark McLelland, 2017-02-17 The Routledge Companion to Global Internet Histories brings together research on the diverse Internet histories that have evolved in different regions language cultures and social contexts across the globe While the Internet is now in its fifth decade the understanding and formulation of its histories outside of an anglophone framework is still very much in its infancy From Tunisia to Taiwan this volume emphasizes the importance of understanding and formulating Internet histories outside of the anglophone case studies and theoretical paradigms that have thus far dominated academic scholarship on Internet history Interdisciplinary in scope the collection offers a variety of historical lenses on the development of the Internet as a new communication technology seen in the context of older technologies as a new form of sociality read alongside previous technologically mediated means of relating and as a new media vehicle for the communication of content

Media Ownership in Africa in the Digital Age Winston Mano, Loubna El Mkaouar, 2022-10-24 Who owns the media and communications in Africa today and with what implications The book elegantly answers this urgent question by unpacking multiple dimensions of media ownership through rare and authoritative perspectives including both historical and contemporary digital developments It traces the evolving forms of ownership of media and communications in specific African contexts showing how they interact with broader changes in and outside the continent The book also shows how Big Techs such as Meta formerly known as Facebook are involved in a scramble for Africa s digital ecosystem and how their advance brings both opportunities and concerns about ownership and control The chapters analyse evolving forms of ownership and their implications on media concentration and democracy across Africa The book offers a nuanced account of how media ownership structures are in some instances captured with an ever growing and complex ecosystem that also has new opportunities for public interest media Offering a significant representation of the trends and diversity of existing media systems the book goes beyond the postcolonial geographical divisions of North and Sub Saharan Africa to highlight common patterns and significant similarities and differences of communications ownerships between and within African countries The contributors expose media and communications ownership patterns in Africa that are centralised and yet decentralising and in some cases battling resurging and globalising New Journalism Ecologies in East and Southern Africa Trust Matsilele, Shepherd Mpofo, Dumisani Moyo, 2023-03-24 This volume presents case studies of news media employing and integrating social media into their news production practices It links social media use to journalistic practices and news production processes in the digital age of the Global South Critically the chapters look at seminal cases of start up news media whose content is informed by trends in social media ethical considerations and participatory cultures spurred by the wide use of social media There has been considerable research looking at the potential of new media technologies traditional journalism and citizen reporting The extent to which these new media technologies and citizen journalism have morphed or reconfigured traditional journalism practice remains debatable Currently there are questions around the limits of social media in journalism practice as the ethical lines continue to become blurred It is this conundrum of the role of social media in the reconfiguration of the media news making production and participatory cultures that requires more investigation Social media has also turned the logic of the political economy of media production on its head as citizens can now produce package and distribute news and information with shoestring budgets and in authoritarian regimes with no license of practice This new political economy means the power that special interest groups used to enjoy is increasingly slipping from their hands as citizens take back the power to appropriate social media journalism to counter hegemonic narratives Citizens can also perform journalistic roles of investigating and whistleblowing but with a lack off or limited regulation This volume seeks to explore and untangle these issues and provides an invaluable resource for researchers across the field of journalism mass media and communication studies Digital Dissidence and Social Media Censorship in Africa Farooq A.

Kperogi, 2022-07-27 This book reflects on the rapid rise of social media across the African continent and the legal and extra legal efforts governments have invented to try to contain it The relentless growth of social media platforms in Africa has provided the means of resistance self expression and national self fashioning for the continent s restlessly energetic and contagiously creative youth This has provided a profound challenge to the African gatekeeper state which has often responded with strategies to constrict and constrain the rhetorical luxuriance of the social media and digital sphere Drawing on cases from across the continent contributors explore the form and nature of social media and government censorship often via antisocial media laws or less overt tactics such as state cybersurveillance spyware attacks on social media activists or the artful deployment of the rhetoric of fake news as a smokescreen to muzzle critical voices The book also reflects on the Chinese influence in African governments clampdown on social media and the role of Israeli NSO Group Technologies as well as the tactics and technologies which activists and users are deploying to resist or circumvent social media censorship

Decolonising Journalism Education in South Africa Ms Zubeida Jaffer ,Prof. Ylva Rodny-Gumede ,Dr Mvuso Ponono ,Prof. Colin Chasi , 2021-12-20 With 342 years of colonialism and apartheid in South Africa a book of this calibre is essential to contribute to scholarly debates on the decolonisation of the media After the democratic dispensation in 1994 there was a narrow pursuit of transformation and media freedom while neglecting decolonisation patriarchal tendencies and the plight of black women journalists who are often vilified while discharging their duties It was two decades after democracy that the RhodesMustFall movement which later evolved into FeesMustFall movement reignited debates on decoloniality in the academia Moreover the book is published during the second wave of FeesMustFall student protests and the demand for decolonised free education is inevitable as no permanent solution to student funding crisis was crafted In the same vein the book advocates for decolonised pedagogy in universities including journalism curriculum That ownership of the media is still skewed towards white and with only few black companies gradually joining the industry also brings into doubt media freedom editorial independence ethics and integrity among media practitioners Therefore the decoloniality movement seeks to confront these structural challenges head on via dialogue to ensure the integrity of the journalism profession Decolonising journalism in South Africa is published at a time in which journalism serves a watchdog and a critique of a democratic government and needs to follow a bottom up social justice approach and become a voice to the voiceless Therefore this book seeks to revolutionise the media in a way that even the language of reporting of certain issues needs to be changed to a balanced kind of reporting characterised by principles of no fear or favour
