Love and Money Michael Tratner, 2021-02-25. When people speak about love and money, they usually are referring to a conflict: love distorted by the desire for money. Such statements imply that love has a distinct form before economics interferes, but this book aims to show that such a view simplifies what is going on, because people have always been deeply shaped by everything in the social order, including economics. So when people say that money is distorting love, what they are really saying is that the current relationship of love and economics is different from an earlier relationship. This book seeks then to demonstrate the intertwining of the discourses of love and money over a long history by focusing on moments when parallel conceptions appear in economic theories and love stories. The two discourses intersect because both seek to define qualities and behaviors of human beings which are most valuable and hence most desirable. Similar descriptions of valuable behaviors appear at roughly the same time in economic theories of how to acquire wealth and literary stories of how to find ideal lovers. By tracking mutual expressions of desire, value, and acquisition in economics and love stories, this book argues for the ubiquity of the intertwining of these discourses while exploring shifts in conceptions of value. It focuses on four eras when economic and romantic conceptions of what is most desirable were actively changing: in English discourses, the early modern (17th century), the Victorian (19th), the modernist (20th), and the postmodern present.

Martin Dressler Steven Millhauser, 2010-09-01. PULITZER PRIZE WINNER, NATIONAL BOOK AWARD FINALIST. The author of Voices in the Night reveals the mesmerizing journey of an American dreamer as he walks a haunted line between fantasy and reality, madness and ambition, art and industry. This wonderful, wonder-full book is a fable and phantasmagoria of the sources of our century. The New York Times Book Review: Young Martin Dressler begins his career as an industrious helper in his father's cigar store. In the course of his restless young manhood he makes a swift and eventful rise to the top accompanied by two sisters: one a dreamlike shadow, the other a worldly business partner. As the eponymous Martin's vision becomes bolder and bolder, a sense of doom builds piece by piece by hypnotic piece until this mesmerizing journey reaches its bitter-sweet conclusion.

When Machines Play Chopin Katherine Maree Hirt, 2010. The series publishes monographs and edited volumes that showcase significant scholarly work at the various intersections that currently motivate interdisciplinary inquiry in German cultural studies. Topics span all periods of German and German-speaking lands and cultures from the local to the global with a special focus on demonstrating how various disciplines—history, musicology, art history, anthropology, religious studies, media studies, political theory, literary and cultural studies, among others—and new theoretical and methodological paradigms work across disciplinary boundaries to create knowledge and add to critical understanding in German studies broadly. All works are in English. Three to four new titles will be published annually.

Monstrous media/spectral subjects Fred Botting, Catherine Spooner, 2015-05-01. Monstrous media/spectral subjects explores the intersection of monsters, ghosts, representation, and technology in Gothic texts from the nineteenth century to the present. It argues that emerging media technologies—from the phantasmagoria and magic lantern to the handheld video camera and the personal computer—both shape Gothic subjects and in turn become Gothicised. In a collection of essays that ranges from the Victorian fiction of Wilkie Collins, Bram Stoker, and Richard Marsh to the music of Tom Waits, world horror cinema, and the TV series Doctor Who, this book finds fresh and innovative contexts for the study of Gothic. Combining essays by well-established and emerging scholars, it should appeal to academics and students researching both Gothic literature and culture and the cultural impact of new technologies.
