

Iraq:

U.S. Military Captures Saddam Hussein; Weapons Inspector David Kay Reports No WMD

Remarks by Secretary of State Powell, December 2, 2003¹

Secretary Colin Powell delivered his remarks en route to Marrakesh, Morocco.

Q. I wanted to ask a little bit more about Iraq. This morning you were a little bit flip, when you said it was "exciting,"—the fact that people there could not agree on a transition process, and that this Muslim cleric who represents 60 percent of Iraq's population says that our plan is no good, and he wants elections. Could you be a little bit more—a little less flip, and talk about the serious issues that we're facing in Iraq now and how we're going to get through this period without empowering the Shiites prematurely?

Secretary Powell. I wasn't being flip at all. I was being deadly serious—that for the first time in decades you can have an open debate about the future of the country, and Shi'as represent 60 percent of the population. They are also the majority of the population in the Baghdad area as well. And so we have a Governing Council consisting of 25 individuals representing the different groups throughout Iraq who are participating in open debate, and who are discussing the way forward with Ambassador Bremer. And you have various parties around the country, especially Shi'a clerics such as Ayatollah Sistani expressing their view.

I think that this is a challenging period, but also a very interesting period, and we should be encouraged that you're having this kind of open discussion.

Now, the Governing Council has said that they are committed to the current plan, and the Ayatollah has expressed some concerns that he has about that plan, so let the discussions take place. And so, rather than that being a flip observation, it's an accurate observation. Where it will end up, I can't say right now, but the plan that the Governing Council announced on the fifteenth of December—of November, excuse me—and which they then presented, in writing and signed, to the United Nations in response to Resolution 1511 is their plan. And now they have to sell that plan throughout the countryside. And that's what we see taking place. They remain committed to the plan. And we hope through this process of dialogue, and using Ambassador Bremer's good offices, we can reconcile whatever differences there are so that we can move forward.

We all have a common goal, and that is ultimately to get to a constitution that has been ratified by a vote of the people and to come up with a government that has been elected by the people. But there is an interim step along the way, and that's what we're looking at: the creation of an "administrative law," as it is called, and then an "interim assembly" and an interim government that we can transfer sovereignty to, and then under Iraqi sovereignty they can go through the process of writing a complete constitution that will be taken to the people for their approval, and from that constitution, have a basis for elections where the Iraqi people can make the final determination (inaudible) the nature of their government and who their leaders will be. That will take us out to some time in 2005, but we're anxious to move forward more quickly to put in place an interim assembly and interim government so that sovereignty can be transferred and we can stay as friends of that Arab government and help the Iraqi people through the entire process.

Q. I just want to follow up here quickly. Are you ruling out then direct elections for that transitional government?

Secretary Powell. I am ruling in what the Governing Council said they are committed to right now, which is the plan that they submitted. So it would not be appropriate for me to rule in or out anything while the Governing Council, 25 individuals, working with other leaders in Iraq, are making a judgment as to how they wish to go forward. And they're doing it in a closed consultation with Ambassador Bremer and with us and with other coalition leaders who have an interest in this as well. And I hope, increasingly, with the U.N. playing a role.

As you know, for the first time Kofi Annan brought a group together in New York yesterday of interested members of the United Nations to talk about this: neighbors of Iraq, members of the E-10, the elected ten of the Security Council, Spain, as the convener of the Madrid Conference, and the permanent members of the Security Council. And so I hope that through this kind of effort the international community will begin to get more engaged in what's happening in Iraq and especially the United Nations. And I look

The Kay Report On Wmd:

Reports of Weapons of Mass Destruction Findings in Iraq United States. Congress. House. Committee on Armed Services, 2007 Preventive Attack and Weapons of Mass Destruction Lyle Goldstein, 2006 This comprehensive survey of weapons of mass destruction WMD rivalries places the Bush Doctrine of preemption in historical context arguing that instability fueled by first strike incentives is an inherent byproduct of WMD proliferation The Politics of Weapons Inspections Nathan E. Busch, Joseph F. Pilat, 2017-03-21 Given recent controversies over suspected WMD programs in proliferating countries there is an increasingly urgent need for effective monitoring and verification regimes the international mechanisms including on site inspections intended in part to clarify the status of WMD programs in suspected proliferators Yet the strengths and limitations of these nonproliferation and arms control mechanisms remain unclear How should these regimes best be implemented What are the technological political and other limitations to these tools What technologies and other innovations should be utilized to make these regimes most effective How should recent developments such as the 2015 Iran nuclear deal or Syria's declared renunciation and actual use of its chemical weapons influence their architecture The Politics of Weapons Inspections examines the successes failures and lessons that can be learned from WMD monitoring and verification regimes in order to help determine how best to maintain and strengthen these regimes in the future In addition to examining these regimes technological political and legal contexts Nathan E Busch and Joseph F Pilat reevaluate the track record of monitoring and verification in the historical cases of South Africa Libya and Iraq assess the prospects of using these mechanisms in verifying arms control and disarmament and apply the lessons learned from these cases to contemporary controversies over suspected or confirmed programs in North Korea Iran and Syria Finally they provide a forward looking set of policy recommendations for the future The Search For Iraq's Weapons of Mass Destruction Graham S. Pearson, 2005-08-02 This authoritative account explores the facts that lie behind the Weapons of Mass Destruction programmes in Iraq Graham Pearson shows how these programmes were gradually uncovered through the efforts of UN specialist experts then by UNSCOM and UNMOVIC and finally by the Iraq Survey Group The book analyses why there was no stockpile of chemical or biological weapons to be found in Iraq Finally it examines the lessons for inspection verification and non proliferation in the chemical and biological weapons prohibition regimes Efforts to Determine the Status of Iraqi Weapons of Mass Destruction and Related Programs United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Armed Services, 2004 The Search for Weapons of Mass Destruction in Iraq Barbara Moe, 2004-12-15 Discusses the first Gulf War the weapons inspections and the invasion of Iraq in March 2003 all in an effort to protect the region and the world from weapons of mass destruction Pandora's Trap Thomas Preston, 2011-09-16 How important is presidential personality and leadership style in foreign policy decisions To answer this question Thomas Preston takes readers inside the Bush administration's decision making process and use of intelligence to better understand how administration officials justified

the Iraq War and how they sought to avoid blame for the consequences of their actions Based on extensive interviews with key Bush and Johnson administration officials Preston offers students of American foreign policy presidential decision making the dynamics of blame avoidance and future practitioners with an in depth examination of how presidential personality and leadership style impacted Bush s central foreign policy failure In addition Preston looks critically at the oft cited comparisons of Iraq to Lyndon Johnson s leadership during the Vietnam War exploring where the analogy fits and a number of important differences He shows how both presidents styles exacerbated their managerial weaknesses in these cases and the limits of blame avoidance strategies Importantly the book provides a cautionary tale for future leaders to consider more carefully the long term consequences of satisfying their short term policy desires by lifting the lid to any new Pandora s trap Public Papers of the Presidents of the United States, George W. Bush ,2007-03 Contains public messages and statements of the President of the United States released by the White House from January 1 to June 30 2002 Terrorism and Weapons of Mass Destruction Ian Bellany,2007-12-12 This book critically assesses the suggestion that strengthening existing international prohibitions against state level acquisition of Weapons of Mass Destruction could safeguard against the possibility of their use by terrorists targeting civilians Countering Weapons of Mass Destruction Albert J. Mauroni,2016-10-12 The Cold War phrase weapons of mass destruction continues to be used despite significant changes in international political cultures military concepts of operation and technology advances Today the term weapons of mass destruction WMD is used to address many things from grams of ricin and barrels of industrial chemicals to megaton nuclear weapons As a direct result of the decision to refer to all nuclear biological and chemical NBC weapons as well as biological chemical and radiological CBR hazards as WMD we have lost the ability to accurately develop assess and discuss policy concerns relating to the contemporary use of unconventional weapons on the battlefield and within the homeland This book uses a public policy framework to examine how the U S government and in particular the U S military should address the potential use of unconventional weapons in the 21st century It defines the problem identifies the policy actors and reviews policy options It discusses past policy efforts before offering a critical review of current strategies and how WMD issues are integrated into the current military Joint Operating Concepts deterrence cooperative security major combat operations irregular warfare stability and homeland security and proposes new national framework for countering WMD The aim is to answer such questions as what does counterproliferation mean and whether the U S government is adequately prepared to protect U S citizens and its armed forces from adversaries developing unconventional weapons Globalization Antonio L. Rappa,2003-08-01 In the first edition the themes of hope optimism and progress of neoliberalism were examined in Asia and America The second edition Globalization Power Authority and Legitimacy in Late Modernity analyses the new pessimism that has descended on the globalized world The America that was once the bastion of hope optimism and progress is now showing clear signs of a superpower in decline The first sign of the American decline since 1941 in Pearl Harbor was the destruction of the World Trade Center in New York City on 11 September 2001 The other signs are the Vietnamization of Iraq a nuclear stand off with North Korea increasing trade imbalances with China and India a stalemate with terrorists in Afghanistan the challenge of European protectionism a belligerent politics in the Middle East overt American dependence on fossil fuels and the mushrooming of various subprime crises into an escalating global recession This second edition incorporates the latest developments in terms of culture wealth and terrorism around the world and provides possible solutions to salvage the American Dream Foreign policy aspects of the war against terrorism Great Britain.

Parliament. House of Commons. Foreign Affairs Committee, 2004 This is the Committees fifth report on foreign policy aspects of the war against terrorism since the events of 11 September 2001 It makes 74 conclusions and recommendations on a broad range of issues including the political and security situations in Iraq and Afghanistan and related reconstruction issues the role of Pakistan in the war against terrorism and human rights issues Russias foreign policy role the war in Chechnya chemical weapons stockpiles and non proliferation programmes the Israeli Palestine conflict international law aspects including collective action through the UN anticipatory self defence and humanitarian intervention and the continuing threat from al Qaeda The text of UN Security Council Resolution 1546 adopted in June 2004 is included as an appendix The range of issues discussed reflects the Committees view that the diverse threats to security posed by terrorism and failed states are or could become inter connected and that they need to be considered and countered as part of a coherent strategy Winning the Un-war Charles V.
