Encyclopedia of Library and Information Sciences John D. McDonald, Michael Levine-Clark, 2017-03-15 The Encyclopedia of Library and Information Sciences comprising of seven volumes now in its fourth edition compiles the contributions of major researchers and practitioners and explores the cultural institutions of more than 30 countries This major reference presents over 550 entries extensively reviewed for accuracy in seven print volumes or online The new fourth edition which includes 55 new entries and 60 revised entries continues to reflect the growing convergence among the disciplines that influence information and the cultural record with coverage of the latest topics as well as classic articles of historical and theoretical importance

Privatizing Libraries Jane Jerrard, Nancy Bolt, Karen Strege, 2012-01-26 This timely special report from ALA Editions provides a succinct but comprehensive overview of the privatization of public libraries It provides a history of the trend of local and state governments privatizing public services and assets and then examines the history of public library privatization right up to the California legislation introduced earlier this year to restrict cities in the state from privatizing library services The book also examines what happens when a private for profit organization takes over essential management tasks and decisions of a public library including the effects this can have on services patron satisfaction and staff as well as legal issues It provides in depth recommendations for librarians who want to retain control of their own institutions Complete with case studies statistics and a valuable checklist of to dos for libraries that are facing partial or complete privatization

Library Networking--current Problems and Future Prospects Wilson Luquire, 1983 Experts who are active in national state and regional network associations provide stimulating discussions of their experiences problems and successes This volume is based on the symposium Networking Where From Here

Library Networking Pat Molholt, 1988 This report which considers the role of networking activities associated with the technical telecommunication links that bind libraries services and patrons together begins with a historical review of libraries and automation based systems over the last 19 years The importance of the development and implementation of standards in interactive library activities for librarians using state or regional telecommunications networks is then discussed including such factors as the need for increased functionality performance reliability consistent user assistance access and participation in governance Also discussed are the activities of the various regional networks involved in the Linked Systems Project lsp including the development of standards for information transfer between systems via the telecommunications standard known as the Open Systems Interconnection osi The development of the Office of Library Program s leadership role in interlibrary cooperation especially in the application of federal funding to inter and intra state cooperative programs for resource sharing is also described A concluding statement briefly discusses a number of issues currently involved in networking and 10 recommendations are offered for the guidance of the Office of Library Programs in working toward the development of an underlying information infrastructure parallel with the telecommunications infrastructure being created by the National Science Foundation nsf and other federal agencies 5 references cgd Digital Library and Information Developments Ray Booth, 2018-09-24 The information technology explosion and its applications in every aspect of life have changed the entire scenario of the present world The IT revolution and information explosion has led to the emergence of electronic information era Advanced in internet technologies have made it seemingly possible and easy to create digital collections repositories archives and libraries However supporting diverse information usages that facilitate interaction beyond searching and browsing is in the early stages Interactive digital libraries and digital archives are still evolving The digital preservation techniques have brought revolutionary changes in the organization and management of libraries and archives Digital Library improves the organizational efficiencies by leveraging data processing data storage and data communication technologies Existing network facilities can be utilized to achieve great savings in labour costs and the reduction of paper storage and handling facilities This book has written for use in Library and Information Science professionals and students It will be useful of all levels of Library and Information Science Professionals and Students It will also helpful for those preparing for organizing Digital Library in their own premises This book aims to delineate for the readers the principles methods and techniques which are involved in the digital library management and information development The Library of California California Library Networking Task Force, 1996 Computer Applications to Library Kole Lambert, A library computer system is the software used to catalog track circulation where appropriate and inventory a library s assets It is intended for home church private enterprise and other small to medium sized collections Larger libraries typically use an integrated library system to manage the more complex activities such as acquisitions interlibrary loan and licensing online resources With distributed software the customer can choose to self install or to have the system installed by the vendor on their own hardware The customer can be responsible for the operation and maintenance of the application and the data or the customer can choose to be supported by the vendor with an annual maintenance contract Some vendors charge for upgrades to the software Customers who subscribe to a web hosted service upload data to the vendors remote server through the Internet and may pay a periodic fee to access their data Modern libraries are constituted within and by a tradition of techniques and practices that represent a hundred years of codified professional knowledge This book provides a historical overview of this tradition that created a complex environment of expectation and misunderstanding for introducing library automation This book attempts to delineate and discuss the applications of the computer that have been behind the technological revolution of library science The aim of the book is to mainly enhance the readers understanding of the ways in which computers have heralded the invasion of technology into library science with special attention to the emergence of digital libraries which promise to make libraries and their information completely at the mercy of our fingertips Proceedings of the International Symposium, Science & Engineering Libraries for the 21st Century, Leuven, October 2-4, 2002, Arenbergkasteel, Leuven (Heverlee) Raf Dekeyser, 2004 The digital revolution of the last decades of the 20th century had a vast impact on scientific and other libraries worldwide Modern technology has made the access to information so much easier and faster and the Internet sometimes gives its users the false impression that all information can be obtained without any human intervention If this were true libraries would be reduced from intellectual laboratories to museums where visitors only come to look at those strange paper format precursors of the digital information carriers Even if such an extreme futuristic view cannot be completely excluded it is still very far away In the meantime libraries and librarians continue to play an important role especially in the digital environment where the traditional skills of librarians have found a new importance and new applications Their devotion to the preservation of historically significant documents may counterbalance the tendency of the Internet to become a dull collection of knowledge facts and to forget the logical processes through which this knowledge was obtained The long established experience of librarians as organizers of information and as facilitators of the access to this organised knowledge collection has already proven to be of immeasurable value for the use of all kinds of digital information sources
