

Perseus and Medusa

Characters: King, Perseus, Narrator, Medusa (no lines), Demos, Athena

Narrator: A long time ago, in a place called ancient Greece, lived a woman named Demos and her son Perseus. They lived on the island of Okeia, where the king of the island wanted to marry Demos, but Demos did not at all want to marry the king.

King: Demos, will you marry me and be my queen?

Demos: No, I don't want to get married.

King: (a bit irritated) What do you mean?? Who wouldn't want to be the queen of this island?

Demos: I have a son, and at this time I just do not want to be married.

King: (angrier) Do you know what happens to those who say no to the King?

Narrator: The king is starting to get angrier, and starts ordering to his servants to come closer. Just then, Perseus comes to his mother's rescue.

Perseus: (pushing in) My mother can and will say no to whomever she wants! Let's go, Mother, it seems that the king's feelings for you have become so strong that is obsessed with you!

(Perseus and Demos exit stage)

King: (to his servants) With Perseus around, there's no way Demos will marry me. He will always stand up for his mother, and the only way I can get through to Demos is by getting rid of that nuisance! I will think of something so ingenious, that I will never have to see him again.

Narrator: And so the king devised an evil plan. He thought about the horrible Medusa who had a hideous face and her snakes in her hair.

King: (smiling) I've got it! I will send Perseus to get Medusa. There is no way that he could ever return alive!

Narrator: So the king announced his plans to marry a different woman and his subjects threw him a party. All the men brought him a gift, except for Perseus.

King: You poor and lazy fool! Where is your gift for me on this blessed day?

Perseus: (smiling) Sure my family is poor, but we are not at all lazy. I will bring you anything you desire.

Short Skits About Greek Mythology:

Greek Myths John Rearick, 1997 A collection of short plays based on Greek myths intended for grades 4-8 Greek Mythology for Teens Zachary Hamby, 2021-09-09 Greek Mythology for Teens takes classical mythology to a new level by relating ancient stories to the culture, history, art, and literature of today. The book uses the innovative approach of reader's theater to teach mythology to teens, asking them to act out the stories and become engaged in a common learning experience. By looking at topics instrumental to both mythology and modern culture, teens are encouraged to question topics such as heroism, foolishness, love, and more. Each chapter builds on a particular theme found in the central myth and includes activities, discussion questions, and exercises that connect the myth to the modern world and everyday life. Visually appealing sidebars also give background on Greek and Roman mythology and culture. Greek Mythology for Teens takes the classic myths taught in school and turns them into an engaging, interesting, and modern way of looking at old material. Grades 7-12

As previous series editor Ramon Delgado wrote in his introduction to The Best American Short Plays of 1989, the choice of entries for each edition has been based on the same goal: to include a balance among three categories of playwrights: 1) established playwrights who continue to practice the art and craft of the short play; 2) emerging playwrights whose record of productions indicates both initial achievement and continuing artistic productivity; and 3) talented new playwrights whose work may not have had much exposure but whose evidences promise for the future. From its inception, The Best American Short Plays has identified new, cutting-edge playwrights who have gone on to establish award-winning careers, including Tennessee Williams' A Streetcar Named Desire, Edward Albee's Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?, Wendy Wasserstein's The Heidi Chronicles, David Mamet's Glengarry Glen Ross, and Horton Foote's The Trip to Bountiful. This volume is Barbara Parisi's fifth edition as series editor.
