Tim Burton is a very unique and well known director. Not by the amount of movies he does but by the way he uses the stylistic devices. No one like him uses these stylistic devices like he does. For example Tim Burton uses tone, characterization, and setting. He uses them very effectively in his movie Edward Scissorhand's.

For example, one kind of tone that Tim Burton used in Edward Scissorhand's was the neighborhood ladies. They were very gossipy and rude. You could tell that they were never taught etiquette. Once they saw a new person come to the neighborhood they would call one neighbor to the next. They would constantly harass Peg to see her visitor. Peg was a very neutral person that Tim Burton made she was very protective over Edward. They rudely came to her house and invited them to a barbeque that peg never was going to have. Once they met Edward and got their hands on him they were obsessed. They wouldn't leave him alone. Once one found another advantage that Edward could do with his Scissorhand's they would all copycat each other and use Edward. They were obsessed with him to the point where he had no more to give them and then they realized that and turned against him.

Moreover, an example of characterization that Tim Burton used was Edward. Tim Burton made Edward into this very unique character. He looked very gothic and creepy, but as soon as he talked his voice was so gentle and soft. His voice was so different that it was like it wasn't even him. He was sweet and had a etiquette personality with a gothic image. The only thing that

Writing A Film Analysis Paper:

Writing in Film Studies, from Professional Practice to Practical Pedagogy Bryan Mead, 2024-01-09 A common refrain heard from instructors in offices across the world is that students have a hard time producing quality written discourse This is no different in the world of film studies where many undergraduate students struggle to cogently discuss the films they watch in class How can film instructors help students become better writers This book answers this question by first uncovering the disciplinary expectations we have for students and then offering strategies to explicitly teach those expectations in the classroom This book examines and identifies the disciplinary conventions of professional film studies discourse along with the expectations we have for student writing in undergraduate film courses What becomes clear from this analysis is that the pedagogical expectations we have for students are aligned with and shaped by professional writing in the discipline It helps to uncover the argument types instructors take for granted and helps those teaching undergraduate students not only to know what those expectations are but also how to use that knowledge to foster better student writing

The Critical Practice of Film Elspeth Kydd, 2017-09-16 The Critical Practice of Film introduces film studies and production through the integration of criticism theory and practice Its approach is that of critical practice a process that explores the integration and intersection between the critical analysis of films and the practical aspects of filmmaking In other words this book is both an introduction to the ways in which we watch films as well as an introduction to how films are created The more you know about how films are made the more you can appreciate the artistry involved in a film Author Elspeth kydd combines explorations of basic technical and aesthetic principles with extended analyses drawn from both classic and contemporary Hollywood and other world cinemas including Battleship Potemkin 1927 Un Chien andalou 1929 Stagecoach 1939 Mildred Pierce 1945 Notorious 1946 Letter from an Unknown Woman 1948 Gentlemen Prefer Blondes 1953 Breathless 1959 Memories of Underdevelopment 1968 Star Wars 1977 Raiders of the Lost Ark 1981 Distant Voices Still Lives 1988 The Matrix 1999 Amores Perros 2000 Gosford Park 2001 and The Lord of the Rings trilogy 2001 3 Also included is a range of exercises designed to stimulate critical and analytical thought and help to demystify the process of creative mediamaking Assignments range in scale from simple storyboarding and narrative development exercises that may be explored with minimal technology to more complex video projects that can be adapted to suit varying levels of technical skill The Critical Practice of Film provides an accessible introduction to the theory and practice of film studies integrating creative practice with critical and theoretical engagement to guide students towards an engaged form of creative expression and an active role as reviewer and critic Beautifully presented this ground breaking text offers all students an integrated understanding of film criticism and production Elspeth kydd is a Senior Lecturer in Film Studies and Video Production at the University of the West of England She has taught researched and published in film and television studies for nearly twenty years as well as being an active documentary videomaker This book developed from teaching integrated theory practice film courses at universities in the US and UK

Tracing the Impact of First-Year Writing Laura Wilder, 2024-11-15 Tracing the Impact of First Year Writing presents the results of a large scale longitudinal study of college writers that explores the impact of a required first year writing course with a comparative approach not previously available Over five years Laura Wilder conducted 143 interviews with and collected 774 pages of writing from 58 students half of whom had taken a new first year writing course and half who had not Wilder found that while in many ways the experiences of both groups are comparable demonstrating how students receive valuable educations in rhetoric and writing from a variety of sources beyond a first year writing course students who took the first year writing course were much more likely to identify as writers This identification supported students use of writing in powerfully generative and knowledge building ways that they carried with them long after the course into other appropriate contexts In contrast to previous longitudinal studies of college writers undertaken at institutions with high prestige and resources Tracing the Impact of First Year Writing explores the role of writing at a regional public university and documents how students' experiences with writing can be highly divergent across the curriculum and unequal across campuses. Additionally, this book includes the voices of students who do not identify as capable writers and have strongly negative emotional reactions to writing and writing instruction and adds empirical support to innovative calls in the field to transform the first year writing course into one that inspires students to reflectively consider writing itself.

Critical Approaches to Writing about Film John E. Moscovitz, 2000 This book explains how to prepare for and write various types of critical pieces on film. It distinguishes the four main critical formats of writing about film: the review, the critique, the comparative analysis, and the documented research paper, from each other, why, when, and how to use each, and the different aspects within each. The book provides theory, discussion, component examples, and full samples of all formats discussed. The book also provides exercises and strategies to prepare the critic to watch the film and write a first draft. B preparation for and the process of film criticism, style and structure in film criticism, the review, the analytical critique, the comparative analysis, the documented research paper, primary and secondary sources of works, guidelines, and an index of names and titles. For anyone interested in critiquing films for personal interest or professional writing.

Literature into Film Linda Costanzo Cahir, 2014-12-24 For most people, film adaptation of literature can be summed up in one sentence: The movie wasn't as good as the book. This volume undertakes to show the reader that not only is this evaluation not always true, but sometimes it is intrinsically unfair. Movies based on literary works, while often billed as adaptations, are more correctly termed translations. A director and his actors translate the story from the written page into a visual presentation. Depending on the form of the original text and the chosen method of translation, certain inherent difficulties and pitfalls are associated with this change of medium. So often, our reception of a book-based movie has more to do with our expectations and reading of the literature than with the job that the movie production did or did not do. Avoiding these biases and fairly evaluating any particular literary-based film takes an awareness of certain factors. Written with a formalistic rather than historical approach, this work presents a comprehensive guide to literature-based films, establishing a contextual and theoretical basis to help the reader understand the relationships between such movies and the original texts, as well as the reader's own individual responses to these productions. To this end, it focuses on recognizing and appreciating the inherent difficulties encountered when basing a film on a literary work, be it a novel, novella, play, or short story. Individual chapters deal with the specific issues and difficulties raised by each of these genres, providing an overview backed up by case studies of specific film translations. Films and literary works receiving this treatment include The Unbearable Lightness of Being, The Manchurian Candidate (1962), Lady Windemere's Fan by Oscar Wilde, and Shakespeare's Henry V. Interspersed throughout the text are suggestions for activities the film student or buff can use to enhance his or her appreciation and understanding of the films.
