Black American Writing from the Nadir Dickson D. Bruce, Jr., 1992-08-01 In this wide ranging study Dickson D Bruce Jr analyzes post Reconstruction and turn of the century black writing treating minor as well as major authors and considering a broad range of genres Bruce shows that black writers confronted the conditions of an increasingly racist society in almost every aspect of their work from their choice of subject matter to the way they drew their characters to the mood they portrayed At the same time these writers most of whom were members of a small but growing black professional class displayed a concern for middle class aspirations and values Bruce underscores the significance of discerning the tensions between these opposing forces in studying the literature of the time Bruce's attention to the body of work produced by minor writers most of whom have remained obscure to all but a few literary scholars and historians adds an important dimension to our understanding of African American history and literature His discussion of such better known writers as Charles W Chesnutt Paul Laurence Dunbar James Weldon Johnson and W E B Du Bois places them in a fuller literary context defining more clearly their significance as individuals Black American Writing from the Nadir is an insightful well focused work that will benefit social and cultural historians as well as students of literature
