

Why Junk food should be banned in public schools

Junk food has been a bane not because it was cooked to be eaten but because it has been sold in schools and has hence affected lots of changes in children across the world in respect of behavior patterns, study patterns, etc. These foods have minimal nutritional value. For this reason many schools across the world have banned the sale of junk food on campus. Among the prohibited foods and beverages are caffeinated drinks, carbonated beverages, juice drinks with less than some percentage of juice, foods of which the final preparation method is deep-fat fried, sports drinks, energy drinks; and pastries including doughnuts, croissants, sweet rolls and cupcakes. Arguably America has survived on these food items and hence has imbibed this culture at schools also for a very long time. The other extreme of malnourishment is the prevalence of obesity among school going children, especially in the urban areas. While this is not yet an alarming trend in the country, most developed countries have sounded alarm to curb this 20th century malady. Obesity can lead to diabetes, high cholesterol and heart diseases. Blame it on soda, burger, candy and other junk food. Steps are needed to be taken to encourage a healthier lifestyle among our people and we can start with our schools. After all, kids must be stronger in both mind and body. Right now junk food is popular because it is cheap and their television advertisements are effective in satiating our appetite. Well, let us create a market for healthy food, especially native snacks, and if we buy these products, we may help push the prices down. A very successful example of United Kingdom can be followed by marking healthy products with green stickers and junk food with red markers. Currently, foods of minimal nutritional value are available in school vending machines and at the same cafeteria line as mandated school lunch foods, which were subject to certain nutritional standards. Most restrictions on children's access to non nutritious foods in schools are now voluntary, a system that industry groups like the Grocery Manufacturers Association and the American Beverage Association say works very well. Both groups said the panel's recommended portion sizes were too small. There has obviously been a lot of controversy over time as to whether the junk food ban would be successful or not, but finally, we will see the effectiveness of the policy once the schools re-open. In my personal view, it definitely won't hurt. Though some argue that the ban will be rendered useless as kids bring junk food from home and some go off campus to eat, none argue that the junk food ban would be harmful to the students. After all, with 1 in 5 students being obese today compared to 1 in 20 in the 1970s, something must clearly be done. However, the food ban might cause a few problems for the school cafeteria and moreover for many of the clubs who bank on fundraisers. Not only that, many clubs who have in the past depended on candy fundr
