Nilson,2023-07-03 Most of our students neither know how learning works nor what they have to do to ensure it to the detriment both of their studies and their development as lifelong learners The point of departure for this book is the literature on self regulated learning that tells us that deep lasting independent learning requires learners to bring into play a range of cognitive skills affective attitudes and even physical activities about which most students are wholly unaware and that self regulation which has little to do with measured intelligence can be developed by just about anyone and is a fundamental prerequisite of academic success Linda Nilson provides the theoretical background to student self regulation the evidence that it enhances achievement and the strategies to help students develop it She presents an array of tested activities and assignments through which students can progressively reflect on monitor and improve their learning skills describes how they can be integrated with different course components and on various schedules and elucidates how to intentionally and seamlessly incorporate them into course design to effectively meet disciplinary and student development objectives Recognizing that most faculty are unfamiliar with these strategies she also recommends how to prepare for introducing them into the classroom and adding more as instructors become more confident using them The book concludes with descriptions of courses from different fields to offer models and ideas for implementation At a time of so much concern about what our students are learning in college and how well prepared they are for the challenges of tomorrow s economy and society self regulated learning provides a reassuring solution particularly as studies indicate that struggling students benefit the most from practicing it Self-instruction in Practical Business Qualifications Charles Stewart

Solitude Cecile Czobitko, 2019-08-26 Daniel was living an unfulfilled life. He thought that by being a police officer he would be doing his civic duty and bringing good to the world, but the last accident he witnessed had shattered that belief. All he saw was darkness—the worse in people. Where was the kindness and the love? He felt he needed a break and to get far away from this darkness. After a talk with his chief, he decided to go on a road trip. It was on that trip he found a remote property for sale, a wonderful place beside a lake just like he had envisioned. It was peaceful and quiet, what solitude Daniel would have to make a decision. Moving would mean leaving his loving family—his twin sister and father—leaving the police force and changing his life completely. Is that what he really wanted to do? Would this place give him the peace he was seeking? Would he be able to survive all by himself with no one else around him? When he returned to work, the darkness hit Daniel again, and he knew he could no longer work as a police officer. It was then he decided to purchase the property and make the move. Now his life was completely changed. No longer could he go for coffee at Tim's or to a fast food place for a quick meal. He found his life was full of new challenges to overcome, a lot of work to do just to survive day by day, and new concepts to learn. It all depended on him. Did he have it in himself to survive? Would he find what he was seeking? Would he find the peace he craved?
