Anthony Vidler

X Marks The Spot:

Warped Space Anthony Vidler, 2002-02-22 How psychological ideas of space have profoundly affected architectural and artistic expression in the twentieth century Beginning with agoraphobia and claustrophobia in the late nineteenth century followed by shell shock and panic fear after World War I phobias and anxiety came to be seen as the mental condition of modern life They became incorporated into the media and arts in particular the spatial arts of architecture urbanism and film This spatial warping is now being reshaped by digitalization and virtual reality Anthony Vidler is concerned with two forms of warped space The first a psychological space is the repository of neuroses and phobias This space is not empty but full of disturbing forms including those of architecture and the city The second kind of warping is produced when artists break the boundaries of genre to depict space in new ways Vidler traces the emergence of a psychological idea of space from Pascal and Freud to the identification of agoraphobia and claustrophobia in the nineteenth century to twentieth century theories of spatial alienation and estrangement in the writings of Georg Simmel Siegfried Kracauer and Walter Benjamin Focusing on current conditions of displacement and placelessness he examines ways in which contemporary artists and architects have produced new forms of spatial warping The discussion ranges from theorists such as Jacques Lacan and Gilles Deleuze to artists such as Vito Acconci Mike Kelley Martha Rosler and Rachel Whiteread Finally Vidler looks at the architectural experiments of Frank Gehry Coop Himmelblau Daniel Libeskind Greg Lynn Morphosis and Eric Owen Moss in the light of new digital techniques that while relying on traditional perspective have radically transformed the composition production and experience perhaps even the subject itself of architecture

Surrealism and the Art of Crime Jonathan Paul Eburne, 2008 Corpses mark surrealism's path through the twentieth century providing material evidence of the violence in modern life Though the shifting group of poets artists and critics who made up the surrealist movement were witness to total war revolutionary violence and mass killing it was the tawdry reality of everyday crime that fascinated them Jonathan P Eburne shows us how this focus reveals the relationship between aesthetics and politics in the thought and artwork of the surrealists and establishes their movement as a useful platform for addressing the contemporary problem of violence both individual and political In a book strikingly illustrated with surrealist artworks and their sometimes gruesome source material Eburne addresses key individual works by both better known surrealist writers and artists including Andr Breton Louis Aragon Aim C saire Jacques Lacan Georges Bataille Max Ernst and Salvador Dal and lesser known figures such as Ren Crevel Simone Breton Leonora Carrington Benjamin P ret and Jules Monnerot For Eburne the art of crime denotes an array of cultural production including sensationalist journalism detective mysteries police blotters crime scene photos and documents of medical and legal opinion as well as the roman noir in particular the first crime novel of the American Chester Himes The surrealists collected and scrutinized such materials using them as the inspiration for the outpouring of political tracts pamphlets and artworks through which they sought to expose the forms of violence perpetrated in the name of the state its courts and respectable bourgeois values Concluding with the surrealists quarrel with the existentialists and their bitter condemnation of France s anticolonial wars Surrealism and the Art of Crime establishes surrealism as a vital element in the intellectual political and artistic history of the twentieth century
