The Moral of the Story John H. Lockwood,1999 The problem this project attempts to solve is to develop a workable moral education in light of the clash between religious forms of moral education and U S Supreme Court decisions concerning them The concept of story and storytelling has been suggested as a unifying focus for disparate prescriptions for moral education Several recent approaches to moral storytelling have been proposed The approaches of William Bennett Nel Noddings and Herbert Kohl are among those which have attempted to combine moral education and storytelling within the last decade Bennett is identified with other theorists whose primary concern is the moral content of a story Noddings is identified as a process theorist whose primary concern is the process of moral storytelling not the content Kohl is identified as a reflection theorist whose approach challenges tradition in the hope of creating a more moral society Each one of these three approaches attempts to provide a comprehensive program of moral education but they fall short of that goal The purpose of this project then is to construct a storytelling moral education program that improves upon earlier approaches Using the three levels of moral thinking posited by R M Hare a three level approach to moral storytelling is proposed The intuitive critical and meta ethical levels of moral thinking that Hare refers to are used to frame a new three level approach to moral storytelling The three level approach combines content process and reflection into a unified prescription for moral education Thus a more comprehensive plan for moral education through storytelling is developed one that respects traditional forms of moral education while remaining within the parameters set by the U S Supreme Court

The Performance of Religion Cia Sautter,2017-01-12 The performing arts are uniquely capable of translating a vision of an ideal or sacred reality into lived practice allowing an audience to confront deeply held values and beliefs as they observe a performance However there is often a reluctance to approach distinctly religious topics from a performance studies perspective This book addresses this issue by exploring how religious values are acted out and reflected on in classic Western theatre with a particular emphasis on the plays put on during the Globe Theatre s yearlong season of Shakespeare and the Bible Looking at plays such as Much Ado About Nothing Dr Faustus and Macbeth each chapter includes ethnographic overviews of the performance of these plays as well as historical and theological perspectives on the issues they address The author also utilizes scholarship from other academics such as Paul Tillich and Martin Buber in examining the relationship between art and culture This helps readers of this book to look at religion in culture and raise questions and explore ideas about how people appraise their religious values through an encounter with a performance The Performance of Religion Seeing the sacred in the theatre treads new ground in bringing performance and religious studies scholarship into direct conversation with one another As such it is essential reading for any academic with an interest in theology religion and ethics and their expression in culture through the performing arts      General Catalogue of the Books Except Fiction,
