Romances of the Archive in Contemporary British Fiction Suzanne Keen, 2003-01-01 A detailed examination of the growing genre of British fiction featuring archives and archival research from A S Byatt's Booker Prize winning Possession to the paperback thrillers of popular novelists

The Transformation of Vernacular Expression in Early Modern Arts Joost Keizer, Todd Richardson, 2011-10-14 Including contributions by historians of early modern European art architecture and literature this book examines the transformative force of the vernacular over time and different regions as well as the way the concept of the vernacular itself changes in the period

Figures of the Imagination Roger Hansford, 2017-03-16 This new study of the intersection of romance novels with vocal music records a society on the cusp of modernisation with a printing industry emerging to serve people's growing appetites for entertainment amidst their changing views of religion and the occult No mere diversion fiction was integral to musical culture and together both art forms reveal key intellectual currents that circulated in the early nineteenth century British home and were shared by many consumers Roger Hansford explores relationships between music produced in the early 1800s for domestic consumption and the fictional genre of romance offering a new view of romanticism in British print culture He surveys romance novels by Ann Radcliffe Matthew Lewis Sir Walter Scott James Hogg Edward Bulwer and Charles Kingsley in the period 1790-1850 interrogating the ways that music served to create mood and atmosphere enlivened social scenes and contributed to plot developments He explores the connections between musical scenes in romance fiction and the domestic song literature treating both types of source and their intersection as examples of material culture Hansford's intersectional reading revolves around a series of imaginative figures including the minstrel fairies mermaids ghosts and witches and Christians engaged both in virtue and vice the identities of which remained consistent as influence passed between the art forms While romance authors quoted song lyrics and included musical descriptions and characters their novels recorded and modelled the performance of songs by the middle and upper classes influencing the work of composers and the actions of performers who read romance fiction

LOVE - A novel A. Nededog, 2019-01-30 Everyone will experience different types of love in their lives Of course from different people as different people have different variances of the word Our inner romantics secretly long for the type of romance we see in the movies But the ugly truth is not all love is like that Sometimes it can be harmful and toxic to our souls It can be full of heartache disappointment false hope and broken promises It is up to us to either accept the love someone can give us or to fight for the love we know we deserve

Literature and Society in Renaissance Crete David Holton, 1991-06-20 This book presents a comprehensive study of the literature of the Cretan Renaissance and relates it to its historical social and cultural context Crete ruled by Venice from 1211 to 1669 responded to the stimulus of contact with the Renaissance in a body of narrative personal and dramatic poetry written in the Cretan dialect and now regarded as an important influence on Modern Greek literature The historical background is related to an examination of the structure of

The purpose of this book is to change our way of thinking about what is wrong in modern relationships. The problem is not dysfunctional childhoods or insufficiently self-aware psyches but rather the institutional forces shaping how we love. The argument of this book is that the modern romantic experience is shaped by a fundamental transformation in the ecology and architecture of romantic choice. The samples from which men and women choose a partner, the modes of evaluating prospective partners, the very importance of choice and autonomy, and what people imagine to be the spectrum of their choices—all these aspects of choice have transformed the very core of the will: how we want a partner, the sense of worth bestowed by relationships, and the organization of desire. This book does to love what Marx did to commodities; it shows that it is shaped by social relations and institutions and that it circulates in a marketplace of unequal actors.

The Twilight of the Gothic? Joseph Crawford, 2014-05-15 This book explores the history of the paranormal romance genre from its origins in the revisionist horror fiction of the 1970s via its emergence as a minor sub genre of romantic fiction in the early 1990s to its contemporary expansion in recent years into an often controversial genre of mainstream fiction Tracing the genre from its roots in older Gothic fiction written by and for women it explores the interconnected histories of Gothic and romantic fiction from Ann Radcliffe and Jane Austen in the eighteenth century to Buffy Twilight True Blood and The Vampire Diaries in the present day In doing so it investigates the extent to which the post Twilight paranormal romance really does represent a break from older traditions of Gothic fiction and just what it is about the genre that has made it so extraordinarily divisive captivating millions of readers whilst simultaneously infuriating and repelling so many others
