Belated Travelers Ali Behdad, 1994-08-12 In Belated Travelers Ali Behdad offers a compelling cultural critique of nineteenth century travel writing and its dynamic function in European colonialism Arriving too late to the Orient at a time when tourism and colonialism had already turned the exotic into the familiar late nineteenth century European travelers to the Middle East experienced a sense of belatedness of having missed the authentic experience once offered by a world that was already disappearing Behdad argues that this nostalgic desire for the other contains an implicit critique of Western superiority a split within European discourses of otherness Working from these insights and using analyses of power derived from Foucault Behdad engages in a new critique of orientalism No longer viewed as a coherent and unified phenomenon or a single developmental tradition it is seen as a complex and shifting field of practices that has relied upon its own ambivalence and moments of discontinuity to ensure and maintain its power as a discourse of dominance Through readings of Flaubert Nerval Kipling Blunt and Eberhardt and following the transition in travel literature from travelog to tourist guide Belated Travelers addresses the specific historical conditions of late nineteenth century orientalism implicated in the discourses of desire and power Behdad also views a broad range of issues in addition to nostalgia and tourism including transvestism and melancholia to specifically demonstrate the ways in which the heterogeneity of orientalism and the plurality of its practice is an enabling force in the production and transformation of colonial power An exceptional work that provides an important critique of issues at the forefront of critical practice today Belated Travelers will be eagerly awaited by specialists in nineteenth century British and French literatures and all concerned with colonial and post colonial discourse
