You ask your ChatGPT system, "What is it like to be in love?" The generative AI system goes on to explain feelings of connection and romance. How do these systems understand such a complex human emotion?

- ☐ They could never understand love, but they could experience love by interacting with humans.
- ☐ They understand love the same way that humans do, through experience and feedback.
- ☐ They understand because they have general artificial intelligence, which allows them to experience emotion.
- ☐ As of right now, they don't. The system is just compiling other authors' ideas on love.
