GIS and GeoComputation

Peter Atkinson, 2000-06-21

Geographic Information Systems are computer-based systems for geographic analysis. They have been developed over the past twenty-five years and are now widely used. A recent research direction has been the development of geocomputation, representing computer-based geographical analysis beyond the traditional bounds of GIS. In geocomputation, the computer is the research environment itself, not merely a tool. A key to geocomputation is that highly powered computing can be used with sufficient data to avoid traditional parametric approaches altogether. The term geocomputation includes the use of computer-based techniques such as artificial neural networks, genetic programming, and fuzzy logic, but in a geographical context. This new book in the prestigious Innovations in GIS series presents the latest research in geocomputational techniques as presented in the GIS UK Annual Conference.
