Written Narrative Intervention The Great Gatsby:

The Great Gatsby meets Alain Badiou Ursula Vooght, 2023-12-21 The subject of this book is a consideration of the usefulness of the concept of fidelity put forward by the philosopher Alain Badiou in the discussion of film adaptation Fidelity or faithfulness is primarily a consideration that emerges in relation to so called canonical texts in adaptation Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby occupies a position of global recognisability and within the United States cultural mythology that has triggered strong reactions to the four Hollywood adaptations The various adaptations allow for the differing approaches to the adaptation of this novel to be meaningfully explored The film adaptations paratextual elements will be discussed in order to show how these acted as limiting lenses The strategies of the films for handling elements of Fitzgerald's prose and themes will be compared across the adaptations This will culminate in an assertion of the worth of a larger application of a Badiouian fidelity within the field

The Black Pacific Narrative Etsuko Taketani, 2014-11-04 The Black Pacific Narrative Geographic Imaginings of Race and Empire between the World Wars chronicles the profound shift in geographic imaginings that occurred in African American culture as the United States evolved into a bioceanic global power The author examines the narrative of the black Pacific _the literary and cultural production of African American narratives in the face of America's efforts to internationalize the Pacific and to institute a Pacific Community reflecting a vision of a hemispheric regional order initiated and led by the United States. The black Pacific was imagined in counterpoint to this regional order in the making which would ultimately be challenged by the Pacific War. The principal subjects of study include such literary and cultural figures as James Weldon Johnson, George S. Schuyler, artists of the black Federal Theatre Project, Langston Hughes, W. E. B. Du Bois, and Walter White, all of whom afford significant points of entry to a critical understanding of the stakes of the black Pacific narrative. Adopting an approach that mixes the archival and the interpretive, the author seeks to recover the black Pacific produced by African American narratives that were significant enough in their time to warrant surveillance and suspicion and hence are significant enough in our time to warrant scholarly attention and reappraisal. A compelling study that will appeal to a broad international audience of students and scholars of American studies, African American studies, American literature, and imperialism and colonialism.

A Class of Its Own. Laura Hapke, Lisa A. Kirby, 2009-01-14. A Class of Its Own positions important and rediscovered American social protest authors within both a scholarly and student-centered context. The volume draws on the expertise and pedagogy of established and younger scholars who move gracefully from theories of what makes a text work to how studies of class empower college teachers and courses. Among the authors discussed in the volume's essays and prominent in the book's syllabi section are Zora Neale Hurston, Stephen Crane, Agnes Smedley, and Ana Castillo.

Writing After War. John Limon, 1994. This treatise develops a theory of the relationship of war in general to literature in general to make sense of American literary history in particular. The Iliad argues the author inaugurates literary history on the failure of war to be formally beautiful.

Making History New. Seamus O'Malley, 2014-10-24. Guided by Ezra Pound's dictum "Make it new," a generation of writers set out to create fiction and poetry that was unlike anything that came before it. However, as Seamus O'Malley shows, historical narrative was a key site for modernist experimentation. Taking three of literary modernism's major figures—Joseph Conrad, Ford Madox Ford, and Rebecca West—Making History New demonstrates how the movement's literature not only engaged with history but also transformed traditional approaches to its telling in unique ways. Informed by Paul Ricoeur's belief that narrative is necessary to comprehend historical processes, the study closely examines four major modernist historical novels: Conrad's Nostromo interrogates the very term history as it relates the political tumult of a fictitious Latin American country; while Ford's The Good Soldier mirrors the cyclical nature of historiography with a protagonist who returns repeatedly to intense periods of his own past to better comprehend them Two epochal World War I novels The Return of the Soldier and Parade's End depict shell shocked veterans that illustrate the paradox of an accurate historical rendering achieved through the process of amnesia These novels in O Malley's view lead to the high point of what he terms modernist historiography Rebecca West's innovative 1941 travelogue Black Lamb and Grey Falcon and its preoccupation with history's impossibility The monograph concludes with a brief consideration of how historians since World War II have adopted some of the approaches to narrative inaugurated by literary modernists while wrestling with how to relate unthinkable atrocities such as genocide Ultimately Making History New foregrounds narrative's essential role as a bridge between fiction and history as it explores the process by which collective human experience becomes historical narrative

Journal of a Dissenter Chris Wright, 2025-01-20 This is a lengthy intellectual journal by a political radical that ranges over a variety of subjects such as Marxism capitalism history many schools of modern philosophy psychology economics and contemporary American politics It also includes quite a few personal passages but I ve kept those only because they express common experiences and youthful psychological tendencies Its most useful content for students might be its many summaries of good historical and scientific scholarship especially in the journal s second half Ultimately the document is a fairly comprehensive expression of a particular society as refracted through an inquisitive and critical mind from the ages of 15 to 44

Revisiting the Poetics and Politics of Modernism Tamlyn Avery, Sascha Morrell, 2025-12-02 This book revisits women s literature in 1922 long hailed as the miracle year of literary modernism a landmark year of avant garde innovations in publications that included James Joyce s Ulysses T S Eliot s The Waste Land and Ezra Pound s The Cantos Yet if 1922 has been considered a modernist annus mirabilis it was many things besides In 1922 or thereabouts according to Willa Cather the literary world broke in two sequestering traditional writers from those considered modern Many women writers produced work that year across a spectrum of genres forms and politics that would not be accepted into Hugh Kenner s modernist canon Nor however did they readily fit into Cather s categories in some cases rupturing and in other cases affirming a consensus of modernism as a masculinist culturally imperialist interwar enterprise Considering 1922 s historical significance the essays in this collection seek greater inclusion of women in our memory of this year including writers from a range of global and regional contexts and cultural backgrounds Extending other attempts to examine the gender politics of modernism modernity over the past thirty years the project draws connections between the significance of 1922 as it has been understood in the new modernist studies and feminist literary criticism that utilizes single year approaches to revisit and reflect on women s history and the gender politics of modernism

Translating Modernism Ronald Berman, 2010-09-23 In Translating Modernism Ronald Berman continues his career long study of the ways that intellectual and philosophical ideas informed and transformed the work of America's major modernist writers Here Berman shows how Fitzgerald and Hemingway wrestled with very specific intellectual artistic and psychological influences influences particular to each writer particular to the time in which they wrote and which left distinctive marks on their entire oeuvres Specifically Berman addresses the idea of translating or translation for Fitzgerald the translation of ideas from Freud Dewey and James among others and for Hemingway the translation of visual modernism and composition via Cézanne Though each writer had distinct interests and different intellectual problems to wrestle with as Berman demonstrates both had to wrestle with transmuting some outside influence and making it their own
