Silverstein,2016-07-07 Feminist anthropology emerged in the 1970s as a much needed corrective to the discipline s androcentric biases Far from being a marginalized subfield it has been at the forefront of developments that have revolutionized not only anthropology but also a host of other disciplines This landmark collection of essays provides a contemporary overview of feminist anthropology s historical and theoretical origins the transformations it has undergone and the vital contributions it continues to make to cutting edge scholarship Mapping Feminist Anthropology in the Twenty First Century brings together a variety of contributors giving a voice to both younger researchers and pioneering scholars who offer insider perspectives on the field s foundational moments Some chapters reveal how the rise of feminist anthropology shaped and was shaped by the emergence of fields like women's studies, black and Latina studies and LGBTQ studies. Others consider how feminist anthropologists are helping to frame the direction of developing disciplines like masculinity studies, affect theory and science and technology studies. Spanning the globe from India to Canada, from Vietnam to Peru, Mapping Feminist Anthropology in the Twenty First Century reveals the important role that feminist anthropologists have played in worldwide campaigns against human rights abuses, domestic violence and environmental degradation. It also celebrates the work they have done closer to home, helping to explode the developed world's preconceptions about sex, gender and sexuality. Dialogues on Human Rights and Legal Pluralism René Provost, Colleen Sheppard, 2012-08-10. Human rights have transformed the way in which we conceive the place of the individual within the community and in relation to the state in a vast array of disciplines including law, philosophy, politics, sociology, geography. The published output on human rights over the last five decades has been enormous but has remained tightly bound to a notion of human rights as dialectically linking the individual and the state. Because of human rights' dogged focus on the state and its actions, they have very seldom attracted the attention of legal pluralists. Indeed, some may have viewed the two as simply incompatible or relating to wholly distinct phenomena. This collection of essays is the first to bring together authors with established track records in the fields of legal pluralism and human rights to explore the ways in which these concepts can be mutually reinforcing, delegitimizing or competing. The essays reveal that there is no facile conclusion to reach but that the question opens avenues which are likely to be mined for years to come by those interested in how human rights can affect the behaviour of individuals and institutions. Humanitarian Shame and Redemption Heidi Mogstad, 2023-12-08. Following the 2015 refugee crisis, many different actors emerged to contest or mitigate the EU's border policies. This book explores the birth and trajectory of a Norwegian volunteer organisation, A Drop in the Ocean, established by a mother of five with no prior experience in humanitarian work. Drawing on eighteen months of ethnographic fieldwork, Heidi Mogstad examines the organisation's shifting and contested efforts to fill humanitarian gaps in Greece while witnessing and shaming the Norwegian public and politicians into action. Moving beyond existing critiques of humanitarian sentiments like pity and compassion, the book focuses specifically on the work of shame and other negative emotions. Our Wealth is Loving Each Other,

Our Wealth is Loving Each Other Karen J. Brison, 2007-01-01. Our Wealth Is Loving Each Other explores the fluid and context-bound nature of cultural and personal identity among indigenous Fijians. While national identity in Fiji is often defined in opposition to the West through reference to a romanticized pre-modern tradition, individual Fijians are often more concerned with defining their identity vis-à-vis other villagers and other groups within Fiji. When people craft self-accounts to justify their position within the indigenous Fijian community, they question and redefine both tradition and modernity. Modernity on the margins is an experience of anxiety provoking contradictions between competing ideologies and between international ideologies and local experiences. Indigenous Fijians have been exposed to international ideologies and government programs extolling the virtues of pre modern communities that place communal good and time honored tradition over individual gain But other waves of policy and rhetoric have stressed individual achievement and the need to shake individuals out of community bonds to foster economic development Individuals feel contradictory pressures to be autonomous achieving individuals and to subordinate self to community and tradition Brison examines traditional kava ceremonies evangelical church rhetoric and individual life history narratives to show how individuals draw on a repertoire of narratives from local and international culture to define their identity and sense of self Our Wealth is Loving Each Other is appropriate for upper level students and anyone with an interest in Fiji or anthropology Gender Politics In Sudan

Sondra Hale,2018-10-08 Focusing on the relationship between gender and the state in the construction national identity politics in twentieth century northern Sudan the author investigates the mechanisms that the state and political and religious interest groups employ for achieving political and cultural hegemony Hale argues that such a process involves the transformation of culture through the involvement of women in both left wing and Islamist revolutionary movements In drawing parallels between the gender ideology of secular and religious organizations in Sudan Hale analyzes male positioning of women within the culture to serve the movement Using data from fieldwork conducted between 1961 and 1988 she investigates the conditions under which women s culture can be active generating positive expressions of resistance and transformation Hale argues that in northern Sudan women may be using Islam to construct their own identities and improve their situation Nevertheless she raises questions about the barriers that women may face now that the Islamic state is achieving hegemony and discusses limits of identity politics Living in Refuge Leonardo Schiocchet,2022-03-07 This comparative ethnography of a Muslim and a Christian Palestinian refugee camp in Lebanon focuses on contrasting social belonging processes through a ritualization approach Leonardo Schiocchet argues that contrasts emerge out of the intersectionality of religiosity nationhood refugeeness and politics and synthesizes academic research on piety and moral self cultivation and on the everyday life of religious communities He contributes to the literature on refugees at large and Palestinian refugees in particular with the unique dense socio historical portrait of two refugee camps for which there is almost no recorded literature Sex, Wives, and Warriors Philip Francis Esler,2011-06-09 Why and how should we read Old Testament narrative This book provides fresh answers to these questions First it models possible readers of the Bible religious and nonreligious professional and nonprofessional and the reasons that might attract them to it Second with the aid of Mediterranean anthropology it sets out an approach that helps us to interpret a selection of narratives with a cultural understanding close to that of an ancient Israelite Powerful stories such as those of Tamar and Judah in Genesis 38 Hannah in 1 Samuel 1 2 Saul and David in 1 Samuel David and Bathsheba in 2 Samuel 10 12 and Judith burst into new light when understood in closer relation to their original audience Interpreted in this way these narratives allow us to refresh the memory that links us with pivotal stories in Jewish and Christian identities they disclose more ample possibilities for being human they foster our capacity for intercultural understanding and they provide aesthetic pleasure from their embodying plots of great imaginative power Collecting Visible Evidence Jane Gaines, Michael Renov, 1999 In documentary studies the old distinctions between fiction and nonfiction no longer apply as contemporary film and video artists produce works that defy classification Coming together to make sense of these developments the contributors to this book effectively redefine documentary studies They trace the documentary impulse in the early detective camera in the reenactment of battle scenes from World War I and in the telecast of the Nevada A Bomb test in 1949 Other topics include experiments in virtual reality the crisis of representation in anthropology and video art and documentary work that challenges the asymmetry of the postcolonial Us Them divide
