As the two dimensions of the model are not orthogonal, the interpretation of the model coefficients is not straightforward. For example, the coefficient on the interaction term represents the difference in the effect of the independent variable on the dependent variable between the two groups, depending on the value of the other independent variable. In other words, the coefficient on the interaction term represents the difference in the effect of the independent variable on the dependent variable between the two groups, depending on the value of the other independent variable.
