Project in Duval County, Florida (April 2014) United States. Office of the Assistant Secretary of the Army (Civil Works),2015 Implementing a Low-Carbon Future WEILA. GONG,2025-11-03 In an era of intensified geopolitics and of national level political gridlock subnational governments can potentially play an essential role in combating global climate change Can subnational governments introduce and sustain climate policy actions through changes in political leadership How can we understand why some local areas have and continue to deliver on their climate goals while other areas may have set goals but have struggled to deliver them Despite being the world s largest carbon emitter China has pledged to attain peak carbon before 2030 and carbon neutrality before 2060 Since the early 2010s Beijing has selected more than one hundred local low carbon pilots at municipal and provincial levels to engage in policy experimentation Their aim is policy solutions to decouple local economic growth from increased use of fossil fuels In Implementing a Low Carbon Future Weila Gong examines four cases of such policy experimentation and finds that local implementation outcomes were mixed Notably Gong finds variation in levels of low carbon policy institutionalization across the case studies This includes varying successes of the standards regulations and laws put into place through these policy experiments Based on original research including over 100 expert interviews comparative case studies and process tracing of four low carbon city pilots Gong opens the black box of the subnational climate policy process in China s centralized political system and identifies mid level local bureaucrats as playing an essential bridge leader role in bringing about implementation successes Housing Market Response to Sea-Level Rise in Florida Risa Palm,Toby Bolsen,2021-11-17 South Florida continues to attract new residents despite its susceptibility to sea level rise This book explores the views of real estate agent with respect to how prospective homebuyers assess the risk of flooding It reports on their observations as to whether house prices are stagnant or falling in coastal areas vulnerable to flooding and their conclusions after working with prospective homebuyers as to whether coastal south Florida is a good place to find a home or alternatively a risky investment in a place that will eventually be submerged by rising seas The book reports on a 2020 survey of real estate agents and concludes that it is not clear that the housing market has integrated flood risk either into reduced demand for housing or in reduced prices for houses susceptible to flooding These conclusions have important implications for understanding how the risks of climate change and sea level rise are reflected in the housing market both now and in the near term future
