Demineralization and Remineralization of Teeth Dr. Shandar Siddiqui, Dr. Imran Saba, 2020-10-14 Dental caries is defined as a multifactorial transmissible infectious oral disease caused primarily by the complex interaction of cariogenic oral flora biofilm with fermentable dietary carbohydrates on the tooth surface over time. At the tooth surface and sub surface level dental caries results from a dynamic process of attack, demineralization and restitution, remineralization of the tooth matter. It is essential to understand that carious lesions or cavitations in teeth are signs of an underlying condition, an imbalance between protective factors i.e. those favouring remineralization and pathologic factors i.e. those favouring demineralization, balance tilting towards the latter. In clinical practice it is very easy to lose sight of this fact and focus entirely on the restorative treatment of caries lesions, failing to treat the underlying cause of the disease. Direct Restorations Marius Bud, 2024-05-31. This book is a practical guide to direct restorative treatments offering multiple examples of alternative techniques for the quick and predictable resolution of cases. It gives an overview of all stages of patient management including technical support, ergonomics, working technique and workflow of the treatment stages. Up to date guidance is provided on tools, materials, diagnosis and planning protocols as well as on pre restorative procedures. Layering and morphology modelling techniques of the anterior and posterior teeth are covered in detail and methods for direct proximal wall restoration are explained. Readers will find guidance on restorative techniques for cervical lesions, injection moulding, occlusal adaptation and the management of failures. The book is a valuable companion explaining all the stages needed to achieving good predictable and long term prognostic results in an efficient manner with respect to clinical principles proven and validated by academic studies.
