Land Law and Urban Policy in Context Thanos Zartaloudis, 2016-10-14. This book is a collection of essays honouring and engaging with the work of the late Professor Patrick McAuslan. It is a collection that narrates analyses and critiques McAuslan's contributions as well as offering substantive perspectives on how his work has impacted the legal fields in which he was involved, including those of land law, urban planning law and policy, land use and participation in developing countries, democratic constitutionalism and legal education. The essays present McAuslan's contributions in the contexts in which they emerged and according to both the circumstances and motivations that shaped them as well as the challenges they encountered. It thus provides an ideal point of engagement for scholars, students and policy makers that have already interacted with McAuslan's ideas and work or who have yet to do so.

Predictive Intelligence Using Big Data and the Internet of Things Gupta, P.K., Ören, Tuncer, Singh, Mayank, 2018-12-28. With the recent growth of big data and the internet of things (IoT), individuals can now upload, retrieve, store and collect massive amounts of information to help drive decisions and optimize processes. Due to this, a new age of predictive computing is taking place and data can now be harnessed to predict unknown occurrences or probabilities based on data collected in real time. Predictive Intelligence Using Big Data and the Internet of Things highlights state-of-the-art research on predictive intelligence using big data, the IoT and related areas to ensure quality assurance and compatible IoT systems. Featuring coverage on predictive application scenarios to discuss these breakthroughs in real-world settings and various methods, frameworks, algorithms and security concerns for predictive intelligence, this book is ideally designed for academicians, researchers, advanced level students and technology developers.

Research Universities in Africa Nico Cloete, Ian

Bunting,2018-11-09 From the early 2000s a new discourse emerged in Africa and the international donor community that higher education was important for development in Africa Within this zeitgeist of converging interests a range of agencies agreed that a different collaborative approach to linking higher education to development was necessary This led to the establishment of the Higher Education Research and Advocacy Network in Africa Herana to concentrate on research and advocacy about the possible role and contribution of universities to development in Africa This book is the final publication to emerge from the Herana project The project has also published more than 100 articles chapters reports manuals and datasets and many presentations have been delivered to share insights gained from the work done by Herana Given its prolific dissemination it seems reasonable to ask whether this fourth and final publication will offer the reader anything new This book is certainly different from previous publications in several respects First it is the only book to include an analysis of eight African universities based on the full 15 years of empirical data collected by the project Second previous books and reports were published mid project This book has benefited from an extended gestation period allowing the authors and contributors to reflect on the project without the distractions associated with managing and participating in a large scale project For the first time some of those who have been involved in Herana since its inception have had the opportunity to at least make an attempt to see part of the wood for the trees Different does not necessarily mean new An emphasis on the newness of the data and perspectives presented in this book is important because it shows that it is more than a historical record of a donor funded project Rather each chapter in this book brings to a lesser or greater extent something new to our understanding of universities research and development in Africa

The First Year at School: An International

Perspective Peter Tymms,Tiago Bartholo,Sarah Howie,Elena Kardanova,Mariane Campelo Koslinski,Christine Merrell,Helen Wildy,2023-06-26 This book explores an under researched but vital part of education the first year at primary elementary school The work shows that children s progress varies enormously from school to school class to class and child to child This variation is important because the more progress that children make in that first year of school the higher their academic attainment at the end of compulsory schooling The iPIPS international Performance Indicators in Primary Schools project upon which this book is based has been able to provide deeper insights into some of the key issues within and across different contexts whilst highlighting new and some ongoing issues Despite all the work there remain unanswered or new puzzling issues which are also explored We need to know how to improve the education at that stage and more broadly we need greater clarity about when children should be taught to read and be introduced to formal arithmetic in other words when they should start school We also need to be clearer about whether when and how young children should be assessed The book will suggest some answers but it will raise important questions and dilemmas for which we do not as yet have answers

Published by Academic Conferences and Publishing International Limited Decolonising the Future Academy in Africa and Beyond Michaela Pelican, Karim Zafer, Michael Bollig, 2025-02-27 What does it mean to decolonise academia in Africa Is this important project limited to the humanities Is it a project for the future Are there forerunners at African universities today The contributors to this volume show different trajectories for anthropology as a discipline and for decolonising academia across the continent and beyond They offer a variety of perspectives especially regarding collaboration between African and German scholars in the areas of research teaching and institutional development While some are hopeful and take inspiration from earlier experiences of disciplinary and methodological developments in academic decolonisation and international collaborations others remain critical and call for more radical attempts at decolonisation Crisis, Identity and Migration in Post-Colonial Southern Africa Hangwelani Hope Magidimisha, Nene Ernest Khalema, Lovemore Chipungu, Tamuka C. Chirimambowa, Tinashe Lukas Chimedza, 2017-07-24 This book offers a socio historical analysis of migration and the possibilities of regional integration in Southern Africa It examines both the historical roots of and contemporary challenges regarding the social economic and geo political causes of migration and its consequences i e xenophobia to illustrate how diaspora migrations have shaped a sense of identity citizenry and belonging in the region By discussing immigration policies and processes and highlighting how the struggle for belonging is mediated by new pressures concerning economic security social inequality and globalist challenges the book develops policy responses to the challenge of social and economic exclusion as well as xenophobic violence in Southern Africa This timely and highly informative book will appeal to all scholars activists and policy makers looking to revisit migration policies and realign them with current globalization and regional integration trends National Youth Development Agency Annual Report South Africa. National Youth Development Agency, 2016 Architecture, State Modernism and Cultural Nationalism in the Apartheid Capital Hilton Judin, 2021-04-08 This book is the first comprehensive investigation of the architecture of the apartheid state in the period of rapid economic growth and political repression from 1957 to 1966 when buildings took on an ideological role that was never remote from the increasingly dominant administrative legislative and policing mechanisms of the regime It considers how this process reflected the usurpation of a regional modernism and looks to contribute to wider discourses on international postwar modernism in architecture Buildings in Pretoria that came to embody ambitions of the apartheid state for industrialisation and progress serve as case studies These were widely acclaimed projects that embodied for apartheid officials the pursuit of modernisation but carried latent apprehensions of Afrikaners about their growing economic prospects and cultural estrangement in Africa It is a less known and marginal story due to the dearth of material and documents buried in archives and untranslated documents Many of the documents drawings and photographs in the book are unpublished and include classified material and photographs from the National Nuclear Research Centre negatives of 1960s from Pretoria News and documents and pamphlets from Afrikaner Broederbond archives State architecture became the most iconic public manifestation of an evolving expression of white cultural identity as a new generation of architects in Pretoria took up the challenge of finding form to their prospects and beliefs. It was an opportunistic faith in Afrikaners who urgently needed to entrench their vulnerable and contested position on the African continent. The shift from provincial town to apartheid capital was swift and relentless. Little was left to stand in the way of the ambitions and aim of the state as people were uprooted and forcibly relocated, structures torn down and block upon block of administration towers and slabs erected across Pretoria. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of architectural history as well as those with an interest in postcolonial studies, political science and social anthropology.
