Bioinsecurities Neel Ahuja,2016-03-31 In Bioinsecurities Neel Ahuja argues that U S imperial expansion has been shaped by the attempts of health and military officials to control the interactions of humans animals viruses and bacteria at the borders of U S influence a phenomenon called the government of species The book explores efforts to control the spread of Hansen's disease, venereal disease, polio, smallpox and HIV through interventions linking the continental United States to Hawaii, Panama, Puerto Rico, Cuba, Congo, Iraq and India in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. Ahuja argues that racial fears of contagion helped to produce public optimism concerning state uses of pharmaceuticals, medical experimentation, military intervention and incarceration to regulate the immune capacities of the body. In the process, the security state made the biological structures of human and animal populations into sites of struggle in the politics of empire, unleashing new patient activisms and forms of resistance to medical and military authority across the increasingly global sphere of U.S. influence.

Geographies of Stellenbosch Ronnie Donaldson, 2021-02-11 Amid a growing turn towards Southern cities, South African urban geographers continue to remind us why and how to attend to local context and draw on theory from elsewhere. Human Geographies of Stellenbosch: Transforming Space, Preserving Place, edited by Ronnie Donaldson, provides a deep look at crucial questions facing one of South Africa's most well-known town cities. Written from years of local knowledge by scholars at Stellenbosch University, this volume asks what urban transformation means, who it is for, and the politically tantalising question of whether and how we might hold on to some of the old while aspiring towards the new. In a global context in which we are all searching for how to justly remember our messy past, how to decolonise and hold onto what makes places unique, this volume will be of interest to scholars asking such questions in and beyond urban studies. Williams' Basic Nutrition
