Smart Economy in Smart Cities T. M. Vinod Kumar, 2016-08-25 The present book highlights studies that show how smart cities promote urban economic development The book surveys the state of the art of Smart City Economic Development through a literature survey The book uses 13 in depth city research case studies in 10 countries such as the North America Europe Africa and Asia to explain how a smart economy changes the urban spatial system and vice versa This book focuses on exploratory city studies in different countries which investigate how urban spatial systems adapt to the specific needs of smart urban economy The theory of smart city economic development is not yet entirely understood and applied in metropolitan regional plans Smart urban economies are largely the result of the influence of ICT applications on all aspects of urban economy which in turn changes the land use system It points out that the dynamics of smart city GDP creation takes different paths which need further empirical study hypothesis testing and mathematical modelling Although there are hypotheses on how smart cities generate wealth and social benefits for nations there are no significant empirical studies available on how they generate urban economic development through urban spatial adaptation This book with 13 cities research studies is one attempt to fill in the gap in knowledge base

The current growth path in sub Saharan Africa is not following the Lewis model where labour moves from low productivity agriculture to higher productivity manufacturing. Instead it is moving directly to inappropriate import and labour saving methods. This book seeks to show how this distorted growth process leaves out the major resource of these countries labour and ends up creating unstable employment and underemployment leading to inequality and poverty. In this way it demonstrates how the entire growth process may be rendered unstable and unsustainable. Sustainable Growth in the African Economy considers whether the relatively rapid growth of recent years can be maintained or improved upon with a focus on the process of industrialisation. Basing itself on a well known dual economy model the proposed book focuses on several major problems of industrialisation which has long been seen as the means of structural change in an economy which begins from a low income level. The book considers how the future trajectory of sub Saharan Africa compares to recent success stories on other continents and explains how factors such as rapid population growth and capital and import intensive technology in manufacturing could foreshadow future social and political problems. This book will be essential reading to students and policymakers who are concerned with the existing pattern of African growth.

Digital Africa Tania Begazo, Moussa Blimpo, Mark Dutz, 2023-04-04

All African countries need better and more jobs for their growing populations. Digital Africa Technological Transformation for Jobs shows that broader use of productivity enhancing digital technologies by enterprises and households is imperative to generate such jobs including for lower skilled people. At the same time broader use can support not only countries short term objective of postpandemic economic recovery but also their vision of economic transformation with more inclusive growth. These outcomes are not automatic however. Mobile internet availability has increased throughout the continent in recent years but Africa's uptake gap is the highest in the world. Areas with at least 3G mobile internet service now cover 84 percent of country populations averaged across Sub Saharan Africa but only 22 percent use such services. The average African business lags in the use of smartphones and computers as well as more sophisticated digital technologies that catalyze further productivity gains. Two issues explain the usage gap: the affordability of these new technologies and the willingness to use them. For the 40 percent of Africans below the extreme poverty line mobile data plans alone would cost one third of their incomes in addition to the price of access devices, apps and electricity. Data plans for small and medium businesses are also more expensive than in other regions. Moreover shortcomings in the quality of internet services and in the supply of attractive skill appropriate apps that promote entrepreneurship and raise earnings dampen people's willingness to use them. For those countries already using these technologies the development payoffs are significant. New empirical studies for this report add to the rapidly growing evidence that mobile internet availability directly raises enterprise productivity, increases jobs and reduces poverty across Africa. To realize these and other benefits more widely Africa's countries must implement complementary and mutually reinforcing policies to strengthen both consumers' ability to pay and willingness to use digital technologies These interventions must prioritize productive use to generate large numbers of inclusive jobs in a region poised to benefit from a massive youthful workforce one projected to become the world's largest by the end of this century The Routledge Handbook on Informal Urbanization Roberto Rocco, Jan van Ballegooijen, 2019-01-02 The Routledge Handbook on Informal Urbanization investigates the mutual relationship between the struggle for political inclusion and processes of informal urbanization in different socio-political and cultural settings It seeks a middle ground between two opposing perspectives on the political meaning of urban informality The first the emancipatory perspective frames urban informality as a practice that fosters autonomy entrepreneurship and social mobility The other perspective more critical sees informality predominantly as a result of political exclusion inequality and poverty Do we see urban informality as a fertile breeding ground for bottom up democracy and more political participation Or is urban informality indeed merely the result of a democratic deficit caused by governing autocratic elites and ineffective bureaucracies This book displays a wide variety of political practices and narratives around these positions based on narratives conceived upon specific case cities It investigates how processes of urbanization are politicized in countries in the Global South and in transition economies The handbook explores 24 cities in the Global South as well as examples from Eastern Europe and East Asia with contributions written by a global group of scholars familiar with the cases often local scholars working in the cities analyzed who offer unique insight on how informal urbanization can be interpreted in different contexts These contributions engage the extreme urban environments under scrutiny which are likely to be the new laboratories of 21st century democracy It is vital reading for scholars practitioners and activists engaged in informal urbanization

Transforming Tertiary Agricultural Education in Africa David Kraybill, John Lynam, Adipala Ekwamu, 2021-11-24 Enormous changes are affecting African production agriculture urbanization and food consumption patterns requiring new approaches to training and knowledge generation and dissemination to achieve food security Many agricultural universities and other tertiary agricultural education TAE organizations have been slow to respond hindered by inadequate staffing and facilities and growing competition for funds However some African agricultural universities are transforming themselves and are achieving remarkable success This book documents successful approaches to remaking TAE in Africa to inspire leaders both formal and informal of other TAE organizations It emphasises adaptive strategies and processes creating an internal culture driven by stakeholder needs and where organizational transformation improves the quality and relevance of teaching research and outreach The chapters cover the role of TAE in agricultural transformation trends in TAE in Africa solutions to the rigour versus relevance dilemma curriculum design informed by actual and emerging labour market conditions innovation and entrepreneurship TAE quality assurance and networking among TAE institutions

Understanding Urban Health Disparities: Family Planning Access and Use Among the Urban Poor in Low- and Middle-Income Countries Moses Tetui, James Duminy, Onikepe Oluwadamilola Owolabi, Moazzam Ali, 2022-07-26 Advances in the Leading Paradigms of Urbanism and their Amalgamation Simon Elias Bibri, 2020-06-20 This book explores the recent advances in the leading paradigms of urbanism namely compact cities eco cities and data driven smart cities and the evolving approach to their amalgamation under the umbrella term of smart sustainable cities It addresses these advances by investigating how and to what extent the strategies of compact cities and eco cities and their merger have been enhanced and strengthened through new planning and development practices and are being supported and leveraged by the applied solutions pertaining to data driven smart cities The ultimate goal is to advance sustainability and harness its synergistic effects on multiple scales This entails developing and implementing more effective approaches to the balanced integration of the three dimensions of sustainability as well as to producing combined effects of the strategies and solutions of the prevailing approaches to urbanism that are greater than the sum of their separate effects in terms of the tripartite value of sustainability Sustainable urban development is today seen as one of the keys towards unlocking the quest for a sustainable world And the big data revolution is set to erupt in cities throughout the world heralding an era where instrumentation datafication and computation are increasingly pervading the very fabric of cities and the spaces we live in thanks to the IoT Big data and the IoT technologies are seen as powerful forces that have tremendous potential for advancing urban sustainability Indeed they are instigating a massive change in the way sustainable cities can tackle the kind of special conundrums wicked problems and significant challenges they inherently embody as complex systems They offer a multitudinous array of innovative solutions and sophisticated approaches informed by groundbreaking research and data driven science As such they are becoming essential to the functioning of sustainable cities Besides yet knowing to what extent we are making progress towards sustainable cities is problematic adding to the fragmented conflicting picture that arises of change on the ground in the face of the escalating rate and scale of urbanization and in the light of emerging ICT and its novel applications In a nutshell new circumstances require new responses This timely and multifaceted book is intended for a wide readership As such it will appeal to researchers academics urban scientists urbanists planners designers policy makers and futurists as well as all readers interested in sustainable cities and their ongoing and future data driven transformation
