Towards a Feminist Translator Studies Helen Vassallo,2022-10-17 This pioneering work advocates for a shift toward inclusivity in the UK translated literature landscape investigating and challenging unconscious bias around women in translation and building on existing research highlighting the role of translators as activists and agents and the possibilities for these new theoretical models to contribute to meaningful industry change The book sets out the context for the new subdiscipline of feminist translator studies positing this as an essential mechanism to work towards diversity in the translated literature sector of the publishing industry In a series of five case studies that each exemplify a key component of the feminist translator studies toolkit Vassallo draws on exclusive interviews with a range of activist translators and publishers setting these in dialogue with contemporary perspectives on feminism and translation to propose a new agent based model of feminist translation practice In synthesising these perspectives Vassallo makes a powerful argument for questioning existing structures in the translated literature publishing system which perpetuate bias and connects these conversations to wider social movements towards promoting demonstrable change in the industry This book will be a valuable resource for students and scholars of translation studies and publishing as well as for the various agents involved in promoting translated literature in the UK and beyond Gabrielle Petit Sophie De Schaepdrijver,2015-02-26 In central Brussels stands a statue of a young woman Built in 1923 it is the first monument to a working class woman in European history Her name was Gabrielle Petit History has forgotten Petit an ambitious and patriotic Belgian executed by firing squad in 1916 for her role as an intelligence agent for the British Army After the First World War she was celebrated as an example of stern endeavour but a hundred years later her memory has faded In the first part of this historical biography Sophie De Schaepdrijver uses Petit s life to explore gender class and heroism in the context of occupied Europe Petit s experiences reveal the reality of civilian engagement under military occupation and the emergence of modern espionage The second part of the book focuses on the legacy and cultural memory of Petit and the First World War By analysing Petit s representation in ceremony discourse and popular culture De Schaepdrijver expands our understanding of remembrance across the 20th

Doob,2004-03-24 In Responding to Youth Crime in Canada Anthony Doob and Carla Cesaroni describe how Canada has been responding to youth crime in the context of the Youth Criminal Justice Act which came into force on April 1 2003 The authors describe what is known about Canadian youth crime and the operation of the youth justice system in the context of the changes in the law that are taking place The authors posit that the youth justice system has a relatively modest impact on youth crime In order to respond intelligently to it and to evaluate the response of the state two sets of information must be understood First society must try to understand what youth crime looks like in Canada Second in order to understand and evaluate the changes that are being made in youth justice legislation in Canada a clear understanding of the manner in which the youth justice system currently operates is necessary Unlike those who look to the youth justice system to solve the problem of youth crime the authors suggest that we should look to the youth justice system to respond appropriately to the realities of what constitutes youth crime and look elsewhere to address how one might affect the level of youth crime in our society Reviving Citizen Engagement Larry N.
