Fitz,2005-07-30 Leslie Marmon Silko a Laguna Pueblo Native American was raised in a culture with a strong oral tradition She also grew up in a household where books were cherished and reading at the dinner table was not deemed rude but instead was encouraged In his examination of Silko s literature the author explores the complex dynamic between the spoken story and the written word revealing how it carries over from Silko s upbringing and plays out in her writings Focusing on critical essays by and interviews with Silko the author argues that Silko s storytelling is informed not so much by oral Laguna culture as by the Marmon family tradition in which writing was internalized long before her birth In Silko s writings this conflicted desire between the oral and the written evolves into a yearning for a paradoxical written orality that would conceivably function as a perfect nonmediated language The critical focus on orality in Native literature has kept the equally important tradition of Native writing from being honored By offering close readings of stories from Storyteller and Ceremony as well as passages from Almanac of the Dead and Gardens in the Dunes the author shows how Silko weaves the oral and the written the spirit and the flesh into a new vision of Pueblo culture As he asserts Silko s written word rather than obscuring or destroying her culture s oral tradition serves instead to sharpen it The Electrical Review ,1906 Ward's Automobile Topics ,1907 Automation in Textile Machinery L.
