South Africa's water governance hydraulic mission (1912-2008) in a WEF-Nexus context Johann W.N. Tempelhoff, 2018-12-01 Geologists physicists and ecologists currently promote the idea of a post Holocene epoch the Anthropocene As a result of constant innovation and modernisation in the fields of engineering natural science management studies and environmental studies there has been a growing awareness of the intrinsic interaction between humankind and the environment. Humankind has become part of the environmental dynamics to the extent that they are literally able to change ecosystems. Nowhere is the impact more evident than in the anthropogenic engagement with the hydrosphere from the smallest pool of water to the earth's atmosphere. Comprehensive infrastructure development in water and sanitation, the growing trend to seek additional resources in the form of groundwater, desalinated seawater and recycled wastewater as well as special attention being given to capturing and preserving rainwater bear evidence of a timely response to climate change. Population growth and rapid development in many water stressed regions of the world. The purpose of the book is to provide a historical overview of the manner in which South Africa's water resources have been governed from a time when the Union of South Africa was formed in 1910 up to 2008, a time of a growing global awareness of the potential impact that climate change may have on water resources in a key region of southern Africa notable for increasing levels of aridity and more erratic rainfall patterns. This focus on the history of water affairs in South Africa makes it possible for scholars to comprehend the contemporary transitions made in the country's water governance system since the establishment in 2014 of the Department of Water and Sanitation. The focus is on the Water-Energy-Food nexus, a strategy which holistically contemplates the governance and use of water from the perspective of the interconnection between water, energy and food as resources.

The implementation of international law in Germany and South Africa Mehrdad Payandeh, Silja Vöneky, Dire Tladi, Alexander Proelss, Patrick Vrancken, Leonie Hensgen, Engela Schlemmer, Wolfgang Durner, Lisa Chamberlain, Tumai Murombo, Nicola Wenzel, Lilian Chenwi, Kirsten Schmalenbach, Christopher Gevers, Bonolo Dinokopila, Matthias Herdegen, 2015-07-23. South Africa, the power house of the African continent as well as Germany, Europe's largest economic power, are faced with an intricate maze of international obligations whether related to the United Nations, the World Trade Organization, the African Union or the European Union. EU international human rights law, international humanitarian law or any other sub-regime of international law. The two countries are in a different position when facing the implementation of this maze of obligations. South Africa is a developing economy that faces various capacity challenges which at times also impact the manner and extent to which it implements its international treaty obligations. Germany, on the other hand, benefits from comparatively well-funded institutes of international law and a well-trained academic community which have contributed to the successful implementation of much of international law. But as the relevant chapters in this volume show, the German case is not without its own complexities. As a result, an exchange of ideas and experiences pertaining to the implementation of international obligations can prove fruitful for both countries. Moreover, such an exchange could also serve as a useful point of departure for other countries in Southern Africa that face similar challenges in relation to implementation. The current book explores suitable techniques of implementation of international law by comparing South Africa with Germany. After a general overview of the status of international law within Germany and South Africa respectively, it focuses on the implementation of international instruments pertaining to key sub areas of international law in the two countries These include the United Nations Charter peace and security the international law of the sea international economic law international environmental law international human rights law international criminal law regional integration and the status of international judicial decisions before domestic courts

Contradictions of Democracy Nicholas Rush Smith, 2019-01-17 Despite being one of the world's most vibrant democracies police estimate between five and ten percent of the murders in South Africa result from vigilante violence This is puzzling given the country's celebrated transition to democracy and massive reform of the state's legal institutions Where most studies explain vigilantism as a response to state or civic failure in Contradictions of Democracy Nicholas Rush Smith illustrates that vigilantism is actually a response to the processes of democratic state formation In the context of densely networked neighborhoods vigilante citizens often interpret the technical success of legal institutions for instance the arrest and subsequent release of suspects on bail as failure and work to correct such perceived failures on their own Smith also shows that vigilantism provides a new lens through which to understand democratic state formation Among young men of color in some parts of South Africa fear of extra judicial police violence is common Amid such fear instead of the state seeming protective it can appear as something akin to a massive vigilante organization An insightful look into the high rates of vigilantism in South Africa and the general challenges of democratic state building Contradictions of Democracy explores fundamental questions about political order the rule of law and democratic citizenship The Law of State Succession D. P. O'Connell, 2015-12-03 First published in 1956 this book presents an account regarding the legal principles governing the consequences of changes of sovereignty focusing particularly on British practice during the preceding 150 years The legal principles governing British practice are compared with those of other states in order to record the main points of doctrinal agreement or divergence
