specifically address the challenges facing those who are not professional accountants and auditors when examining corporate financial reports Corporate financial reports are used widely by managers investors creditors and government agencies to examine company performance and evaluate potential risks However although seemingly an invaluable source of information for managerial decision making financial reports are often based on rough simplifications of a very complex reality With no way of avoiding deliberate manipulations and fraudulent activity these statements cannot be relied on completely when selecting stocks or evaluating credit risk and therefore poor analysis can lead to potentially disastrous investment decisions The author suggests that in order to effectively interpret corporate financial reports we must read between the lines to accurately assess a company s economic performance and predict its long term viability Philosophy Reborn Part IV:
