NOVA: What Darwin Never Knew (2009)

"What Darwin Never Knew" is a documentary film that explores the life and work of Charles Darwin, the renowned naturalist and author of "On the Origin of Species." The film delves into Darwin's groundbreaking theories on evolution and natural selection, which revolutionized the field of biology and challenged long-held religious beliefs about the origins of life on Earth. The documentary begins by delving into Darwin's early life and his voyage on the HMS Beagle, during which he traveled the world and made important observations about the diversity of life forms he encountered. The film then explores Darwin's meticulous research and observations, including his study of fossils, comparative anatomy, and the distribution of species around the globe. The film also delves into the scientific discoveries and breakthroughs that have been made since Darwin's time, shedding light on modern understandings of genetics, molecular biology, and the fossil record. It explores how these discoveries have further corroborated Darwin's theories and expanded our understanding of evolution.

Science Vocabulary:

- Natural selection - The process by which species adapt to their environment over time through genetic changes that increase their chances of survival and reproduction.
- Evolution - The gradual change in the characteristics of a species over generations, driven by genetic variation and natural selection.
- Genetic variation - The differences in the genetic makeup of individuals within a population, which provides the raw material for natural selection to act upon.
- Speciation - The process by which new species arise from a common ancestor through genetic divergence and reproductive isolation.
- Fossil record - The preserved remains or traces of ancient organisms, providing evidence of past life forms and their evolution over time.
- Genetic mutation - A change in the DNA sequence of an organism's genome, which can result in new genetic traits that may be subject to natural selection.
- Adaptation - A heritable trait or characteristic that increases the fitness of an organism in its environment, allowing it to better survive and reproduce.
