takes as its focus the thirteenth century a critical period for the survival and development of these rights being a time of ambitious Church reform of great change in patterns of land ownership in the ranks of the higher nobility and of bold assertion by the English Crown of its claims to control Church property The thirteenth century also saw a proliferation of record keeping on the part of kings bishops and nobility and the author uses new evidence from a range of documentary sources to explore the nature of the relationships between the English nobility the Church and its clergy a relationship in which patronage was the essential feature Dr Elizabeth Gemmill is University Lecturer in Local History and Fellow of Kellogg College University of Oxford
