The American Friend ,1929 Fear and Friendship Sarah Coakley,Frances Ward,2012-03-08 Many encounters between people of different religions are marked by an initial sense of incompetence ignorance and fear of getting it wrong of causing offence of ulterior motives Such fears are here explored honestly in stories of actual situations and relationships often unexpected sometimes funny invariably profound Friendship is presented as a public rather than merely a private phenomenon enabling relations of trust and depth to develop and leading to the possibility of authentic talk and reciprocity of respect and courtesy It emerges as a risky venture in learning how to be human involving honest negotiation self sacrifice and a seeking after the truth It can enable people to address the fears that so often prohibit inter religious encounters from deepening beyond the superficial A strong underlying theme is how the Church of England can contribute to social cohesion in a religiously pluralistic society even if local clergy and congregations at first feel untrained or wary Five-Minute

The Sunday-school Times ,1887 The Friend ,1919 Creating Religious Childhoods in Anglo-World and British Colonial Contexts, 1800-1950 Hugh Morrison,Mary Clare Martin,2017-01-20 Drawing on examples from British world expressions of Christianity this collection further greater understanding of religion as a critical element of modern children s and young people s history It builds on emerging scholarship that challenges the view that religion had a solely negative impact on nineteenth and twentieth century children or that secularization is the only lens to apply to childhood and religion Putting forth the argument that religion was an abiding influence among British world children throughout the nineteenth and most of the twentieth centuries this volume places religion at the center of analysis and discussion At the same time it positions the religious factor within a broader social and cultural framework The essays focus on the historical contexts in which religion was formative for children in various British settings denoted as Anglo or colonial during the nineteenth and early to mid twentieth centuries These contexts include mission fields churches families Sunday schools camps schools and youth movements Together they are treated as sites in which religion contributed to identity formation albeit in different ways relating to such factors as gender race disability and denomination The contributors develop this subject for childhoods that were experienced largely but not exclusively outside the metropole in a diversity of geographical settings By extending the geographic range even within the British world it provides a more rounded perspective on children s global engagement with religion
