News Parody and Political Satire Across the Globe Geoffrey Baym,Jeffrey P. Jones,2013-09-13 In recent years the US fake news program The Daily Show with Jon Stewart has become a surprisingly important source of information conversation and commentary about public affairs Perhaps more surprisingly so called fake news is now a truly global phenomenon with various forms of news parody and political satire programming appearing throughout the world This collection of innovative chapters takes a close and critical look at global news parody from a wide range of countries including the USA and the UK Italy and France Hungary and Romania Israel and

Palestine Iran and India Australia Germany and Denmark Traversing a range of national cultures political systems and programming forms News Parody and Political Satire Across the Globe offers insight into the central and perhaps controversial role that news parody has come to play in the world and explores the multiple forces that enable and constrain its performance It will help readers to better understand the intersections of journalism politics and comedy as they take shape across the globe in a variety of political and media systems This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Popular Communication

Spoofing the Vampire Simon Bacon, 2022-10-10 Famous for being deathly serious the vampire genre has a consistent yet often critically overlooked subgenre the comedic spoof and satire This is the first book dedicated entirely to documenting and analyzing the vampire comedy on film and television Various types of comedy are discussed outlining the important differences between spoofing serious spoofing parody and satire Seminal films such as Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein Love at First Bite Vampire in Brooklyn Dracula Dead and Loving It and What We Do In the Shadows are featured More importantly this book demonstrates how comedy is central to both the common perception of the vampire and the genre's ever evolving character making it an essential read for those interested in the laughing undead and creatures that guffaw in the night

Opera Parody Songs of Blackface Minstrels (1844-1860) Renee Lapp Norris, During the American antebellum period minstrelsy was a ubiquitous form of theatrical entertainment Typically performed by white men in blackface makeup minstrelsy was based in oppressive misrepresentation of people of color and it created enduring stereotypes Beginning in the mid 1840s minstrels burlesqued various types of popular non blackface entertainments including Shakespeare's plays touring European concert musicians and opera which often was performed in the United States in English language adaptations Minstrels burlesques were advertised on playbills and mentioned in the press but there are few sources for their actual music and lyrics The thirty eight pieces of this edition survive as complete discrete songs published as musical sources Minstrels opera parody songs typically recast operatic characters as slaves who are happy childishly reliant on their paternalistic masters and primitively agrarian Such portrayals supported the so called happy darkey caricature that was central to mid century political ideology Minstrels used this imagery to parody up and down social hierarchies exploiting people of color and debasing opera's ostensibly elevated aesthetics. Alongside minstrelsy's racial politics, the parodies demonstrate creative musical adaptation. Each of the thirty-eight songs parodies opera differently, suggesting minstrel inventiveness. The songs are rare and specific examples of the widespread practice of inter-genre borrowing and musical arrangement that was fundamental to minstrelsy. Content Warning: The scores in this edition are intended for research rather than performance. Performance of these scores is discouraged. The original song titles and lyrics in this edition are evidence of and tools for racial oppression and are maintained here to present an accurate and reliable account of minstrelsy.

Looking-Glass Wars: Spies on British Screens since 1960 Alan Burton, 2018-01-31. Looking Glass Wars: Spies on British Screens since 1960 is a detailed historical and critical overview of espionage in British film and television in the important period since 1960. From that date, the British spy screen was transformed under the influence of the tremendous success of James Bond in the cinema, the spy thriller and of the new style spy writing of John le Carr and Len Deighton. In the 1960s, there developed a popular cycle of spy thrillers in the cinema and on television. The new study looks in detail at the cycle, which in previous work has been largely neglected in favour of the James Bond films. The study also brings new attention to espionage on British television and popular secret agent series such as Spy Trap, Quiller and The Sandbaggers. It also gives attention to the more realistic representation of spying in the film and television adaptations of le Carr and Deighton and other dramas with a more serious intent. In addition, there is wholly original attention given to nostalgic spy fictions on screen, adaptations of classic stories of espionage which were popular in the late 1970s and through the 1980s, and to historical spy fiction dramas which treated real cases of espionage and their characters, most notably the notorious Cambridge Spies. Detailed attention is also given to the secret state thriller, a cycle of paranoid screen dramas in the 1980s which portrayed the intelligence services in a conspiratorial light, best understood as a reaction to excessive official secrecy and anxieties about an unregulated security service. The study is brought up to date with an examination of screen espionage in Britain since the end of the Cold War. The approach is empirical and historical. The study examines the production and reception, literary and historical contexts of the films and dramas. It is the first detailed overview of the British spy screen in its crucial period since the 1960s and provides fresh attention to spy films, series and serials never previously considered.
