market access foreign direct investment infrastructure and income inequality Topics include subregional integration schemes the multilateral trade agenda launched in Doha initiatives such as the Free Trade Area of the Americas and interregional agreements with the European Union The Political Economy of Digital Ecosystems Meelis Kitsing,2021-08-18 This book connects political economy perspectives with scenario planning for mapping out future trajectories of digital ecosystems The focus is purposefully on digital ecosystems as it encompasses economic political and social contexts on a global national and local level The diversity of political economy approaches allows the author to explore alternative meanings of digital ecosystem development which is particularly useful for envisioning alternative futures Often visions about the future of digital ecosystems suffer from a lack of imagination and confirmation bias which is favorable to the extrapolation of current trends A wide range of political economy perspectives applied through positivist theorizing in this book shows different interpretations of developments in digital ecosystems Scenario planning teams around the world have applied a collective imagination to show how future trajectories can be radically different from the current trends The book outlines meta scenarios for alternative futures of the political economy of digital ecosystems by reviewing and synthesizing the work of foresight teams These meta scenarios served as insights for developing four scenarios for European digital ecosystems through the workshops with high level executives and experts The scenarios identified the nature of EU cooperation and the development of digital infrastructure as key drivers These four scenarios developed in the workshops are further operationalized in a specific context by exploring the implications for Estonia as well as for Chinese investments in European platforms This exercise shows how scenarios of digital ecosystems can be used for stress testing decisions and strategies Decision makers students scholars and other stakeholders in a wide range of industries ranging from academia to ride sharing can use the scenarios for reframing different development trajectories and future proofing their strategies The scenarios can be further developed and modified for specific purposes and contexts as they are not written in stone When Things Don't Fall Apart Ilene Grabel,2019-08-06 An account of the significant though gradual uneven disconnected ad hoc and pragmatic innovations in global financial governance and developmental finance induced by the global financial crisis In When Things Don't Fall Apart Ilene Grabel challenges the dominant view that the global financial crisis had little effect on global financial governance and developmental finance Most observers discount all but grand systemic ruptures in institutions and policy Grabel argues instead that the global crisis induced inconsistent and ad hoc discontinuities in global financial governance and developmental finance that are now having profound effects on emerging market and developing economies Grabel's chief normative claim is that the resulting incoherence in global financial governance is productive rather than debilitating In the age of productive incoherence a more complex dense fragmented and pluripolar form of global financial governance is expanding possibilities for policy and institutional experimentation policy space for economic and human development financial stability and resilience and financial inclusion Grabel draws on key theoretical commitments of

Albert Hirschman to cement the case for the productivity of incoherence Inspired by Hirschman Grabel demonstrates that meaningful change often emerges from disconnected erratic experimental and inconsistent adjustments in institutions and policies as actors pragmatically manage in an evolving world Grabel substantiates her claims with empirically rich case studies that explore the effects of recent crises on networks of financial governance such as the G 20 transformations within the IMF institutional innovations in liquidity support and project finance from the national to the transregional levels and the rebranding of capital controls Grabel concludes with a careful examination of the opportunities and risks associated with the evolutionary transformations underway expanded worldwide that claims that the best policies to stimulate human development are those that reduce the role of the state in economic and social lives privatizing public services and public enterprises deregulating the mobility of capital and labor eliminating protectionism and reducing public social protection This ideology called neoliberalism has guided the globalization of economic activity and become the conventional wisdom in international agencies and institutions such as the IMF World Bank World Trade Organization and the technical agencies of the United Nations including the WHO Reproduced in the Washington consensus in the United States and the Brussels consensus in the European Union this ideology has guided policies widely accepted as the only ones possible and advisable This book assembles a series of articles that challenge that ideology Written by well known scholars these articles question each of the tenets of neoliberal doctrine showing how the policies guided by this ideology have adversely affected human development in the countries where they have been implemented
