we turn to the psychohistorian Robert Lifton who investigates the effects on the human psyche of various traumatic experiences wars natural disasters etc According to Lifton survivors of disaster often sense that their world has collapsed and they engage in a struggle to go on living Part of this struggle involves finding meaning in death and locating death's place in the continuity of life Like many such survivors Job's understanding of death is a flashpoint indicating his bewilderment or desymbolization in the early portions of his speeches and then later on his arrival at what Lifton calls resymbolization the reconfiguration of a world that can account for disaster and render death and life meaningful again
