

SYSTEM DESIGN DOCUMENT

Overview

The System Design Document describes the system requirements, operating environment, system and subsystem architecture, files and database design, input formats, output layouts, human-machine interfaces, detailed design, processing logic, and external interfaces.

1 INTRODUCTION

1.1 Purpose and Scope

This section provides a brief description of the Systems Design Document's purpose and scope.

1.2 Project Executive Summary

This section provides a description of the project from a management perspective and an overview of the framework within which the conceptual system design was prepared. If appropriate, include the information discussed in the subsequent sections in the summary.

1.2.1 System Overview

This section describes the system in narrative form using non-technical terms. It should provide a high-level system architecture diagram showing a subsystem breakout of the system, if applicable. The high-level system architecture or subsystem diagrams should, if applicable, show interfaces to external systems. Supply a high-level context diagram for the system and subsystems, if applicable. Refer to the requirements trace ability matrix (RTM) in the Functional Requirements Document (FRD), to identify the allocation of the functional requirements into this design document.

1.2.2 Design Constraints

This section describes any constraints in the system design (reference any trade-off analyses conducted such, as resource use versus productivity, or conflicts with other systems) and includes any assumptions made by the project team in developing the system design.

1.2.3 Future Contingencies

This section describes any contingencies that might arise in the design of the system that may change the development direction. Possibilities include lack of interface agreements with outside agencies or unstable architectures at the time this document is produced. Address any possible workarounds or alternative plans.

1.3 Document Organization

This section describes the organization of the Systems Design Document.

1.4 Points of Contact

This section provides the organization code and title of the key points of contact (and

Department of Defense Policies and Procedures for the Acquisition of Information Technology, 2009-11 This report examines the challenges facing the DoD in acquiring information technology IT and offers recommendations to improve current circumstances The fundamental problem DoD faces is that the deliberate process through which weapon systems and IT are acquired does not match the speed at which new IT capabilities are being introduced in today s information age Consequently the principal recommendation of the study is that DoD needs a new acquisition system for IT Roles and responsibilities for those involved in the acquisition process must be clarified and strengthened and the IT system acquisition skills required in the workforce must also be strengthened Illustrations
