

TEXAS ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® GENERAL INFORMATION AND NOTICE TO A BUYER

THIS IS NOT A CONTRACT. IT IS A GUIDE ONLY. IT DOES NOT CONSTITUTE AN OFFER OF REAL ESTATE. IT IS NOT A CONTRACT. IT IS A GUIDE ONLY. IT DOES NOT CONSTITUTE AN OFFER OF REAL ESTATE.

Be an informed buyer. Make sure that the property you want to purchase meets your needs. The following information may assist you during your purchase.

ADDITIONAL INFO. If the property you buy is outside the limits of a municipality, you should be aware that the property may later be serviced by a nearby municipality. You may find information on the boundaries of nearby municipalities by contacting the municipalities directly.

APPRAISAL. An appraisal is a valuation of the property. An appraiser renders an estimate of value as of a certain date under assumptions and conditions stated in the appraisal report. Typically, a buyer's lender requires an appraisal to verify that the loan is secured by property that is worth a certain amount. An appraisal is not the same as an inspection.

BROKERAGE. A real estate broker represents a party (buyer or seller) in a real estate transaction or they act as an intermediary between the parties. You may work with the broker or with one of the broker's agents. You will be provided a form titled "Information About Brokerage Services" (TAR 2501) which defines agency relationships. The agent may help you locate a property and is obligated to represent the transaction. The agent may assist you in gathering information and may coordinate many details in the transaction. Brokers and agents are not appraisers. They do not possess the expertise to conduct inspections and therefore do not make any representations, warranties, or guarantees about a property's condition. Agents are not attorneys. You are encouraged to seek the assistance of an attorney to help you understand any of the legal consequences and provisions of your contract or transaction.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONCERNS

General. Over the years the market has identified environmental conditions that buyers should know may exist. Environmental hazards include, but are not limited to, conditions such as asbestos, lead-based paint, mold, pesticides, radon gas, toxic waste, underground storage tanks, urea formaldehyde insulation, and other pollutants. Wetlands or endangered species on the property may restrict the use of the property.

Environmental inspections. If you are concerned that environmental hazards, wetlands, or endangered species may be present on the property you wish to buy, you should hire a qualified expert to inspect the property for such items. You may include a paragraphed addendum (TAR 1017) in your contract that may address such matters.

Lead-Based Paint. If you buy a property that was built before 1978, federal law requires that you be provided with: (1) the pamphlet titled "Protect Your Family from Lead in Your Home" (TAR 2517); (2) the records and reports the seller has concerning lead-based paint or hazards; and (3) an opportunity to have the property inspected for lead-based paint or hazards.

Mold. It is not uncommon to find mold spores in a property. The pamphlet about mold discusses when there are large amounts of mold found in a property. The Texas Department of Insurance published a document titled "Protect Your Home from Mold" (TAR 2502) which discusses mold in more detail.

Noise. Properties around the property you may buy are used for a variety of purposes. Some of the uses cause noise (for example, airports, highways, freeways, restaurants, bars, schools, arenas and construction). You are encouraged to drive and review the area around any property in which you are interested at various times and days.

Gas, Air and Chemical Issues. There are diseases such as radon gas and other conditions that may affect trees and other plants. Oak wilt is a fungus that affects certain oak trees. If you are concerned about such matters, have the trees and other plants inspected by a professional of your choice.
